COUNCIL PREPARES FOR ZONING VERDICT

Vaccine Developed From Own Cancer Given To 30 Patients In Experiment

DETROIT (AP)—Some 30 cancer-stricken humans have been given vaccines made from their own cancers, a Boston physician disclosed today.

It is too early to tell whether they benefited. But there are signs they did, and good experimental reasons to think the vaccines can help.

Each vaccine was prepared from bits of each person's own cancer, and then injected under the skin of that same person. The aim was to increase natural resistance to far-advanced cancer.

It could work by forming antibodies against the cancer, and by increasing the number of healthy defensive cells that resist the spread of cancer.

X-rays to kill cancer cells are given soon afterward.

The new experimental work was described to the third National Cancer Conference by Dr. John B. Graham, a physician, and his wife Ruth, a cytologist or expert on cells. Both are from the Vincent Memorial Hospital in Boston.

Mrs. Graham has found an apparent reason for the tragic difference often noted in how well women respond to X-ray treatments of cancer of the cervix, the neck of the womb.

She finds the results best if the women, before treatment, already have high amounts of one or both of two types of healthy cells, found near the cancerous cells.

If they have high amounts of both, 85 per cent of women are still living five years after X-ray treatment. If they have low amounts, only 19 per cent survive.

The Grahams are seeking ways of artificially increasing the number of these healthy, useful cells.

There is evidence so far that one patient developed specific antibodies against her own cancer, the Grahams said. It is too early to say whether they had an improvement in the response of healthy cells, and a bigger killing effect upon the cancer cells from X-ray.

In Washington, the Senate added $58 million yesterday to the $126½ million President Eisenhower had asked for continued research on cancer, heart disease, mental illness, arthritis and other diseases.

It did so in passing by voice vote a $2,372,523,281 money bill to finance the Welfare and Labor departments in the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, which had voted $9 million more than Eisenhower asked for research by the National Institutes of Health. There are other differences between the two versions which also must be resolved.

President Sees Need For Check On Yugoslavia

Chief Says Nation Must Continue To Wage Fight For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would be tragic if Congress doesn't support his foreign aid program. But he believes there should be a re-study of aid for Yugoslavia.

Eisenhower opened his news conference with a lengthy discussion of the foreign aid question, linking it to the fact that this is the 12th anniversary of D-Day, the beginning of the Normandy invasion in World War II.

With emphasis, Eisenhower said that now, as long as we aren't shooting, we aren't spending a tenth as much money as if we were.

We must continue to wage the peace, he said. We must support such programs as the Mutual Security Act and we must have a continuing study of the program to keep it on the right track.

Eisenhower spoke against the background of a $1,109,000,000 cut by the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

SOME LEGISLATORS, moreover, have been talking of stopping aid to Yugoslavia in view of the apparent reconciliation between Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and the Russians.

Tito is visiting in Russia. As to that development, Eisenhower told a questioner he doesn't consider what he called the Tito incident entirely a loss.

Eisenhower asked why Tito had been received in Moscow with such elaborate acclaim and then answered his own question: It was because of the success Tito had in defying the Soviet re-

Mollet Gets New Mandate On Rebellion

PARIS (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet has a new mandate from the National Assembly to put down the nationalist rebellion in Algeria but less than half the deputies would stand up and be counted as supporters of the government.

Mollet won a vote of confidence 271-59 last night on his Cabinet's entire policy. Of the 595 Assembly members, 201 abstained. Only the center factions supported the premier, and the vote was far short of the backing which voted him in to office. The large number of abstentions resulted from the catch-all nature of the resolution.

It called for approval of the entire range of government actions in the financial, economic and foreign fields, plus its handling of the Algerian, Tunisian and Moroccan issues.

The Communists abstained because they oppose the recall of army reservists and the tough military campaign being waged to suppress the 19-month-old rebellion in Algeria.

Members of the rightwing independent peasant party, who believe in fighting to the last ditch in North Africa, abstained because Mollet granted independence for Tunisia and Morocco.

Decision Reversed In Trailer Squabble

NEW PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Fifth District Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a ruling by Common Pleas Judge Frank Cope which upheld refusal of the City of New Philadelphia to issue a trailer court permit to Otis G. Starkey of Ashland.

Starkey planned to establish the trailer court on property he owns. At the time of his permit request it was in an industrial zone. Adjacent home owners protested and the permit was denied.

The appellate court held that the city could have amended its zoning ordinance and outlawed trailer parks prior to Starkey's request but didn't. After Starkey instituted a mandamus suit, City Council changed the area involved from industrial to residential zone.

Army Issues Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 13,000 men in August. This is the same number asked for July.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S appointment of Charles Walters, above, as the new, permanent postmaster at Circleville was confirmed late Tuesday by the U. S. Senate. Walters, who has been serving in an acting capacity, said he considers the position "a high honor for which I will always be grateful." He added: "With the great crew we have to work with at the postoffice, we plan to carry on with our aim to give the district top efficiency postal service."

Ohio Supreme Court Rules Pinballs Gambling Devices

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today held that pinball machines which reward players with free games are gambling devices, banned by law.

The 6-0 decision came in a test case brought by Westerhaus, Inc., Cincinnati, a pinball distributor. The decision may mean the end of the pinball business in Ohio because no reward of any kind, not even free plays, may be offered to prospective players.

Because the decision is based on state law rather than on local ordinances, it will affect all pinball machines in Ohio, attorneys said. A number of Ohio cities have had licensing ordinances similar to Cincinnati's.

The firm sought a declaratory judgment on whether the machines were gambling devices under a Cincinnati ordinance licensing pinball machines. The company also asked an injunction against seizure.

Police Unable To Find Murder Evidence On Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—After a four-hour search, police reported today they found no evidence of a murder aboard the Dominican Line freighter Fundacion. The search resulted from a charge that a missing foe of the Dominican Trujillo regime had been tossed into the ship's boilers.

"We find no evidence that anybody has been murdered on this ship," said Detective Lt. Martin G. Meyers, who headed the police squad checking the vessel.

The Trujillo foe, Dr. Jesus de Galindez, an instructor at Columbia University, disappeared on March 12.

Recently Nicholas Silva, spokesman for the anti-Trujillo Dominican revolutionary party, went to authorities with a story that he had heard that Galindez was kidnapped and tossed into the ship's firebox when the vessel was here last.

Dominican authorities quickly tabbed the story a "lie" and offered to make both the ship and its crew available to authorities at the first opportunity.

Kefauver Favored In Montana Poll

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Tennessee Sen. Estes Kefauver, jolted by his primary defeat in California, could take some solace today in being assured of Montana's 16 votes at the Democratic Convention.

At the same time President Eisenhower claimed the state's 14 Republican convention votes in yesterday's presidential primary, the first in Montana since 1924.

Kefauver was the only name on the Democratic ballot, but a scattering of written votes also went to former Illinois Gov. Adlai Stevenson, New York Gov. Averell Harriman, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Public Hearing Puts It All Up To Lawmakers

'Shopping Center' Ordinance Passes Its First Reading

City council last night moved toward its final decision on the shopping center controversy after listening, for nearly two hours, to the sharpest debate on the subject thus far.

The free-for-all argument was staged in council's own public hearing on the plan to rezone 10 acres on the northern side of Hargus Creek, a step that would clear the way for the shopping center. The Circleville planning and zoning commission has recommended against the proposed zone change, but the final decision will be up to the lawmaking body.

Last night, the so-called "shopping center" ordinance passed first reading. Councilmen Dudley Carpenter and Lee Cook were absent. For council to pass the measure against the recommendation of the planning body would take six of council's seven votes.

The lawmakers themselves had little to say on the subject during the public hearing. Top spokesmen in favor of the rezoning were Attorney Harry B. Shaefer of Columbus and Attorney George D. Young, former Pickaway County Probate Judge. Leading the opposition was Attorney William Ammer, county prosecutor, who has emphasized he is participating in the dispute only as a private citizen.

MUCH OF what was said has already been touched upon frequently in printed accounts, but Ammer stepped up the vigor of his accusations against supporters of the plan and called upon them to "put all the cards on the table."

In the more heated portions of the public argument, it was alleged that supporters of the rezoning had "tried to make liars" out of members of the city planning and zoning commission. George Ammer, brother of the prosecutor, also joined the debate to denounce Shaefer and Dale Stewart, Columbus agent for the shopping center interests, as "fake fronts."

George Ammer declared Councilman Carpenter has a direct interest in the shopping center plans and consequently should not be permitted to vote when the lawmakers make their decision. He likewise recalled that City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins acted in behalf of the shopping center move that was defeated last year, and that consequently he should not be permitted now to advise council.

In reaction to other comments by the prosecutor's brother, Councilman George Crites denied that he had any business connection with the Kroger Co.

Under present plans for the shopping center, a large supermarket operated by the Kroger (Continued on Page Eleven)

12 Years Ago It Was D-Day

Omaha Beach Seeing Pilgrimages Today

OMAHA BEACH, France (AP)—Even to the French peasants who live nearby, this beach where the Allies landed 12 years ago today is known as Omaha.

Their pronunciation may be different but they have learned the name from serious-faced visitors who have come in search of graves and from old soldiers seeking spots burns into their memory of D-Day.

Signs now direct visitors to points of interest along the landing areas. The signs are in French but two invasion names have stuck, Omaha and Utah, the Normandy beaches where the night of the Allies struck to drive back the forces of Nazi Germany.

Today's 12th anniversary of D-Day found residents and visitors again making the annual pilgrimage to the channel-washed strip of brown sand.

The sad gentle sound of taps played by military buglers was only the faintest echo of the fury of that day, when the West mustered a mighty army and sea armada to launch the invasion of Normandy.

TODAY'S military observances were largely confined to the cemeteries—French, British and Canadian—scattered along the coast. The schedule called for the usual speeches, rifle salutes and sounding of taps before the visitors moved quietly through the ordered rows of graves or walked reflectively along the beaches.

Omaha shows almost no trace of the invasion. A rusted landing ship can be seen far down the beach. At low tide the broken skeletons of the harbor made of sunken ships poke through the channel waters. That's about all.

Better Dog Relations For Postmen Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Postoffice Department had expert advice today on how to improve relations between letter carriers and the dogs they meet on their rounds.

A group of authorities on dogs met here yesterday at the call of Postmaster General Summerfield. They agreed unanimously to get behind a program of education for dog owners and mailmen, designed to reduce dog attacks on carriers.

The experts expressed the view that neither chemical repellants on carrier uniforms, nor distribution of dog candy by mailmen, with which the department is experimenting, would provide any lasting solution.

Summerfield, who also is trying out padded pants on some carriers, told the gathering that if the campaign can develop better relationships between dogs and mailmen, hundreds of businesses employing delivery services will benefit.

"There is little room for levity in humor in dog-bite injuries," he said.

In 1955, 5,880 dog bite cases were reported by postmen.

Thug Gets $10,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—A gunman, his features disguised by a phony beard and mustache, robbed the North American Bank of $10,000 today.

Intercontinental Missile Defense Weapon Seen Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Gen. Earle C. Partridge says American scientists have worked out, in principle, a weapon to defend this country against a still-unperfected Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

But, he added, this counter-weapon "has not yet been translated into any hardware and until we can figure out a way to make the thing work operationally, I do not rest very easy."

Partridge is chief of both the Continental Defense Command and the Air Defense Command. He discussed the potential Russian air threat to the United States during secret testimony April 30 and May 1 before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee studying relative U. S.-Soviet air strength.

The general's testimony was made public by the subcommittee last night, but in a heavily censored form. Partridge said both American and Russian scientists are striving to develop an accurate missile capable of speeding a hydrogen warhead thousands of miles in a matter of minutes.

THE GENERAL did not give a

No Tax Cut Due This Year

House Group Cool To Suggested Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Barring a marked business downturn, House tax writers today foresaw little prospect of voting a tax cut in the remaining days of this session.

Next year, they indicated, a general review of individual and business taxes may be in order.

Key members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee gave a cool reception to qualified recommendations made yesterday by the Committee for Economic Development for a tax cut of $2 billion or more effective next Jan. 1.

The CED, which describes itself as a nonprofit economic research organization, proposed general income tax relief, provided there is a substantial Treasury surplus for the coming fiscal year, starting July 1.

Rep. Mills (D-Ark.), a senior member of the Ways and Means Committee, said Congress "is not justified in reducing taxes just because we have a little surplus," and added:

"ANY GENERAL reduction ought to be predicated only on a related reduction in expenditures, or on a downturn in business that would justify a reduction in taxes."

Rep. Boggs (D-La.), another committee member, said he did "not see any tax action this year." Next year "is the way I see it," he declared.

Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.), also a committee member, said "it is premature to talk about tax reduction at this stage of the game" and "not sound policy to talk now about a cut in January."

Ohio GOP Chieftain Says Negro Vote To Go Republican

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio GOP Chairman Ray Bliss said today Ohio Negroes are "swinging back" to the Republicans because of the Eisenhower civil rights record.

Speaking at a news conference before calling on Vice President Nixon, Bliss asserted:

"It seems to me we have in Ohio a chance of at least 10 per cent shift of that Negro vote. Assuming a potential of 300,000 colored votes, that's 60,000 votes plus."

He noted Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) won by just a few thousand votes in 1954 and said a shift of the sort he anticipates could determine the outcome of statewide races.

Bliss called on Nixon to ask him to stump Ohio for Republican candidates and to discuss other Ohio political matters.

Cardinal Reported Arrested Again

ROME (AP)—The official organ of Italian Catholic Action reported today that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, again has been jailed by Hungarian Communists.

The newspaper, Il Quotidiano, expressed belief he was jailed because he had refused to sign a statement "recognizing progress made in recent years between the Hungarian state and the Roman Catholic Church."

A Hungarian court convicted Cardinal Mindszenty of treason in 1949 and sentenced him to life imprisonment. Last July 16 the Hungarian government announced he had been released.

Half Of Brain Removed; Girl No 'Brat' Now

CHICAGO (AP)—An operation has transformed a little girl from a "brat" to a cheerful child.

Doctors, in making the switch, removed half her brain.

Surgeons at Wesley Memorial Hospital said the unnamed 6-year-old blonde youngster had sleeping sickness at the age of 1. Her left side was affected by partial paralysis.

She became a "brat," mistreated others, shouted at her mother and destroyed toys. She suffered 10 to 12 convulsions each day. She was taken out of school because of her ugly behavior and taken to Wesley Hospital.

Medical investigators decided that half her brain was responsible for her behavior. Tests showed the right half of the brain and skull had failed to grow.

So, in a 4-hour, 35-minute operation May 14, the right half of the brain was removed. Generally, the right half of the brain controls the left side of the body.

Now, the doctors reported, the healthy side of the brain is taking over additional functions, and the child's senses are as acute as before the operation.

Partial paralysis still is apparent, they said, but improvement is expected with the passage of time. She has no more convulsions, they added, but does have a new personality, is cooperative, cheerful and of normal intelligence.

Ike Says U.S. Plans Invite To Russian

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says that Gen. Nathan F. Twining's acceptance of an invitation to visit the Soviet Union air show in Moscow June 24 means the United States will reciprocate by inviting Twining's Russian opposite number to this country.

Twining is Air Force chief of staff. The President said further that if Russia should invite Secretary of Defense Wilson to the Soviet Union, then the U. S. certainly would invite Soviet Defense Minister George Zhukov to this country.

Supreme Court Judges Studying Disbarment Case

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Supreme Court judges today studied oral arguments on the request by a committee of lawyers for disbarment of J. Harvey Crow, Cleveland attorney formerly of Urbana.

The committee appealed from appellate court reversal of Crow's disbarment on May 14, 1955, by Champaign County common pleas court. The appellate court returned the case to the trial court for findings of fact and conclusions of law and re-entry of such judgment as the case might require.

Crow was disbarred for alleged unprofessional conduct. His counsel contended that notice of appeal was not filed within the legal time limit.

Counsel asked dismissal of the committee's request to review the appellate court decision.

Stanley Denlinger of Akron made the oral arguments in yesterday's hearing for Crow. Attorney Reed Winegardner of Washington C. H., also counsel for Crow, was present in the courtroom. D. H. Jackman of London presented arguments for the committee.

Grad, 86, Kinda Sad To Leave The Coeds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Like all graduating seniors, John Burgoyne Ely is just a bit sad his college days are about over.

Ely is 86.

"I'll miss those coeds, 8 o'clock classes and coffee breaks," Ely said yesterday. "They kept me from feeling my age."

Six of Ely's seven children will be on hand when he gets his diploma at UCLA Saturday. Four grandchildren will be there too.

Ely's degree is a bachelor of arts in music. During four years of college his grades were all A's and B's.

Marines See Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marine officers attribute a sharp April drop in enlistments chiefly to raised Corps standards but acknowledge that another factor may be the drownings of six recruits on a forced night march.

Scout Troop 52 Returns From Camping Trip

Boy Scout Troop 52, sponsored by the First Methodist Church, returned Tuesday from a weekend camping trip in the Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee.

Ten Scouts, with two leaders, made the journey as part of a reward for advancement during the year.

Walter Fisher, assistant scoutmaster for the Troop, and Tom Rhodes were in charge. Fisher said the boys "saw a lot of bears and had a lot of fun, including falling in creeks."

The camp site was approximately 40 miles from Knoxville, Tenn. Activity over the weekend included a hike up a mountain.

THE GROUP made overnight camping trips in Kentucky both going and coming. Fisher said they encountered some rain "but it cleared up and we had beautiful weather."

Scouts who made the trip included: Ricky Morris, Fred Wick-

Adlai Swamps Kefauver In California Poll

Stevenson's Delegate Total Now 259 1/2—Far From 686 1/2 He Needs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson swept to a thunderous California victory today that all but knocked Sen. Estes Kefauver out of the running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson took California's 68 Democratic convention votes by what approached a landslide margin and forged so far ahead of his rivals that he looked like the man to beat for his party's nomination. He was getting 62 per cent of the vote.

Including yesterday's California, Montana and South Dakota primaries, Stevenson has 259 1/2 delegates and Kefauver 166. Other candidates have 226 total and 370 are uncommitted publicly.

While this left Stevenson substantially short of the 686 1/2 nominating figure, the impetus of his California victory seemed likely to win him support from previously undecided delegates and others still to be chosen.

Despite his California showing, the former Illinois governor apparently failed to match in his own ballot total the count rolled up by an unopposed 70-vote delegate slate backing President Eisenhower for the GOP nomination.

BUT IN THEIR bitterly fought primary, the combined vote Democrats gave Stevenson and Kefauver topped substantially the ballots cast in the unexciting GOP contest. Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans by 782,000 in the state, which Eisenhower won from Stevenson by 700,000 in 1952. With 15,580 of 24,160 precincts counted, the Democratic contest stood: Stevenson 601,583, Kefauver 364,809.

The Republican count from 13,851 precincts gave Eisenhower 596,589. On this basis Eisenhower was certain to top Stevenson.

Conceding defeat early today, Kefauver said he will continue campaigning for the Democratic nomination. He said he will not accept a vice presidential place on the ticket, an offer not likely to come to him if Stevenson wins the top spot.

Kefauver said in a congratulatory telegram to Stevenson he and his supporters will do "everything possible for the election of Democratic candidates in the general election and to bring California back into the Democratic fold in November." The Tennessee senator said he had "no regrets and no alibis" for his defeat.

Stevenson obviously was relieved that primary campaigning ended with California's the final contested election before the August party convention. He said he was "delighted by the results." He added, in what seemed to be a reference to the November election that "This is only the first step in a long campaign."

Hearing On Rezoning Takes Half Of 4-Hour Council Meeting

$25,000 Bond Issue Set For 6 Street Jobs

City Plans Reserve Sanitary Sewer Line Under Bypass

Beginning and ending a wordy, four-hour session with moments of unofficial gaiety, city council Tuesday night listened to the "shopping center argument" for two hours and then spent the remaining two on a variety of other business.

Councilmen Dudley Carpenter and Lee Cook were absent. Councilman Richard Penn presided. Council President Ben Gordon had to yield the gavel for the night's work because he is serving as acting mayor.

Mayor Bob Hedges was still out of the city, and Gordon said the law prohibits an official from holding two elective offices, even for a few hours, at the same time. Gordon was present, however, for all of the long talkathon.

Hints of a lengthy evening were obvious when City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins, with a wide grin and flourish, dropped a handful of new legislation in front of Council Clerk Fred Nicholas to start the meeting. Nicholas, for many years a strong advocate of shorter council meetings, glared at the solicitor in such an unwelcome manner that it brought chuckles from the other lawmakers and spectators.

FIRST official business was in the form of a letter from the Container Corporation to Third Ward Councilman George Crites, complaining about the condition of the streets in the vicinity of the firm's plant.

Asked to comment, City Service Director Dewey Speakman said the city has "done a lot of work down there" (near the plant) and that heavy use by Container trucks makes it virtually impossible to keep that section of Canal St. in good condition. As for the other streets in that vicinity, Speakman expressed belief their condition compares favorably with that of other city streets.

Joe Burns of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce then introduced Dennis E. Murphy, vice-president of the Ohio Company, an investment house with offices in Columbus. Murphy explained the various fine points to be considered in any bond issue to finance off-street parking lots here.

His appearance was arranged by the Chamber after council extended the invitation. In the course of his talk on the various financing steps which could be undertaken, Murphy said Circleville has one of the highest credit ratings of all Ohio cities.

The meeting then swung into a public hearing on the so-called "shopping center ordinance," actually a measure that would rezone 10 acres north of Hargus Creek.

(See page one story) . . . After both sides had their last opportunity for free-for-all arguments on the pending measure, the lawmakers turned to new legislation. The first ordinance, calling for experimental 4-hour parking meters on W. Franklin and

Pinckney streets, was held to first reading.

(See separate story)

THEN, although short-handed with two absentees among the regular councilmen, the lawmakers adopted a resolution that launches a $25,000 program of street construction and repair. Council contemplates issuing bonds in that amount for "grading, surfacing, resurfacing, curbing, guttering, widening and improving" the following:

Sunset Drive, Lewis Road, Georgia Road, Lone Pine Road, Nicholas Drive and S. Pickaway St.

All five members present voted for the measure.

Council next turned to a proposal to build a reserve sewer line alongside the city's present sanitary sewer line at the point where the latter will be under the Route 23 bypass. It was pointed out that the reserve line can be built now—during construction of the bypass itself—for only a fraction of what it would cost after the new highway is finished.

It was decided to have legislation drawn and submitted to council next session for this purpose.

Last of the new measures placed before council Tuesday night turned out to be a catch-all collection of fund transfers. Since it was drawn as an ordinance and could not be passed on first reading with only five councilmen present, the measure was held to first reading. It would:

APPROPRIATE $100 to buy stationery and supplies for the office of the service director.

Appropriate $50 to purchase supplies for the clerk of council.

Appropriate $100 as the 1956 salary for Civil Defense Director Bernard Tait.

Appropriate $3,000 to pay the salaries of special policemen employed by the safety department.

After action on the legislation was completed for the time being, Councilman Harold Clifton suggested that Tait be paid a larger amount for his Civil Defense activities. He said:

"I think he deserves more money. He's doing a good job, and he has a good bit of office work to do too."

Crites agreed:

"I think he's done a couple hundred dollars worth of work. He's conscientious."

CLIFTON AND Crites were in favor of raising the figure for Tait's salary on the pending measure, at least to $200, but Penn said:

"Let's wait until we're ready to pass it." And the others yielded to this suggestion.

The lawmakers then heard second reading of the ordinance that would establish zoning in the city's new North Annex. The ordinance appears to have little opposition in the way of final passage at the next meeting.

The next ordinance, introduced at the request of Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist, would appropriate money to pay for additional services rendered by Burgess and Niple, Columbus firm of engineering consultants. The firm has been asked for advisory aid and other services that were not covered by the city's original contract, which called for a survey of the city-wide sewer system.

Leist explained that the firm's help is essential in studying the most economical methods of handling industrial waste from local plants.

As adjournment neared, the lawmakers were reminded that they had yet to hear second reading of a key measure on the subject of the off-street parking lots. The ordinance would, in effect, have the city accept the plans already drawn and arranged by an engineer hired by the Chamber of Commerce.

Passage of the measure would be recognized as council's approval of the preliminary work done by the Chamber, and of the basic idea of the parking lots as advocated by that organization.

When the copy of this legislation could not be located, The Herald's press copy was turned over to the lawmaking body. The ordinance will be up for final reading next meeting.

During the futile search for the missing ordinance, Council Clerk Nicholas again indicated his disapproval of the lengthy council session.

"Fred's holding up better than usual," quipped Crites, as the clock moved past 11:30 p. m.

The lawmakers next agreed to hold a council committee meeting next Tuesday night to consider the long-studied plans to give Circleville a new garbage disposal setup. Construction of the bypass and Scioto River bridge has forced the city to look elsewhere for another dumping ground, and has also revived talk of a more modern system of garbage collections.

Ervin Leist then presented to council, in the name of his department, a large blackboard, which had already been placed at one side of council chambers. He pointed out that it will frequently come in handy to illustrate municipal problems.

HE ALSO handed over erasers and chalk, and the lawmakers—in mock formality—agreed that Councilman Charles Kirkpatrick should be responsible for those materials. In response to this bit of hilarity, Kirkpatrick arose and bowed his acceptance to the few remaining in the room.

When adjournment came, members of council were discussing the growing problems caused by storm water in the Northend. The city has warned property owners that storm water can no longer be turned into sanitary sewer lines.

And that is where an awful lot of it has been—and still is—going. Without adequate storm sewers, the problem remains one of the most difficult on the city's list of puzzlers.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have settled a question which has puzzled Westerners ever since the mid-1930s when Stalin purged thousands of his Communist party comrades.

An astonishing parade of Old Bolsheviks confessed in open court crimes against the state, knowing it meant they were not only signing their own death sentences but giving the whole thing an air of justice.

What made it amazing was that these old-time revolutionists were picturing themselves as betrayers of the Revolution to which they had devoted their lives. Had they really done it? Were they guilty at all?

Had they perhaps been induced through some strange Communist reasoning, into confessing what they had never done even though it doomed them? Had they been hypnotized or drugged? Or what had happened?

Westerners wondered and had no way of knowing. Novelist Arthur Koestler wrote a book, "Darkness at Noon," which gave an explanation that sounded plausible to many people for whom the Communist mentality was strange anyway.

The Old Bolshevik in his story, subjected to endless questioning and suggestion by his inquisitors in the dungeons of Moscow, confessed even though he was innocent. Knowing his own life was ended, he thought it best to confess since the party wanted it and he wanted to do what was good for the party.

This kind of interpretation of what happened in the purges put the whole business on a kind of intellectual plane. It was unacceptable to a lot of realistic people who looked on Koestler as a romantic.

It was hard to believe these Old Bolsheviks hadn't been broken by simple police brutality. Then when the Korean War revealed the Red Chinese brainwashing techniques it seemed possible that was what happened in the purges.

But Communist party boss Khrushchev—in a speech to the party Congress last February—told what did happen to "many thousands of Communists" when Stalin had them arrested in the 1930s.

In that speech—a version of which was obtained by the U.S. State Department and made public this week—Khrushchev said they were beaten and tortured in the "most cruel and barbaric and inhuman way" into confessing.

He said "innocent" Communists broke under the police treatment and charged themselves at the order of their torturers, with "all kinds of grave and unlikely crimes."

Khrushchev gave an example: 98 of the 139 Communists elected to the Central Committee—the party's controlling body—were arrested and shot.

Worse still, Khrushchev said that in beating a confession out of one man, they forced him falsely to accuse others. Then the police grabbed those others, beat confessions out of them, forced them to implicate still others. It was an endless bloody chain.

Khrushchev said Stalin gave in-

Ohio Methodists Increase 4,955 In Last Year, Report

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Methodist Conference showed an increase of 4,955 members and nearly one million dollars in church contributions last year.

The Rev. David Weaver, pastor of Toledo's Zion Church, reported to the annual conference meeting Tuesday that membership had risen to 313,493 and that Sunday school attendance had gained 3,586 to a total of 523,459.

Contributions for all purposes totaled $13,276,346. Dr. Lester L. Roush of Columbus, conference treasurer, reported. Major expense items were $3,441,613 for building and improvements; $2,845,516 for current expenses; $2,356,399 for pastors' salaries; $488,257 for World Service; and $424,767 for Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Cons Getting Bibles

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gov. Frank Clement will present autographed Bibles, purchased with state funds, to the 1,500 inmates at the state prison today.

Instructions on how the arrested men should be treated. The instructions he gave, Khrushchev said, usually were: Beat, beat, and, once again, beat.

Khrushchev blew all the Western romantics' high-sound theories about the Moscow purges out the window. Stalin's police didn't waste any time on intellectuality when clubs were more persuasive.

Better Grade Of Metal Is Being Sought

Scientists, Engineers
Hard At Work Trying
To Match Demands

By SAM DAWSON

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Improving the breed — usually associated with Churchill Downs or Belmont — today is the goal of thousands of scientists, engineers, technicians, and pilot plant workmen in the nation. The breed they're out to improve isn't horses but metals.

They are trying to meet the ever growing industrial and military demands for better metals to do precise and often seemingly impossible tasks. Business in general, and even the stock market, watches their result.

That's because improving the breed of metals not only can bring success in the defense armament race but also, metallurgists

The University of South Carolina is the oldest educational institution in the United States entirely supported by state funds.

Beavers never touch fish, although they are aquatic in habit and spend much time in the water.

here say, can make the difference between profit and loss for railroads, airlines, trucking. They say that in improved metals lies the future of automation in manufacturing, building construction, auto design, mining and even man made satellites.

U.S. Steel has just opened a research center at nearby Monroeville, Pa., dedicated to improving the breed of metals. Two thirds of the work there is aimed at improving processes of handling metal and one third at seeking new products or applications.

Allegheny-Ludlum Steel's research scientists here are working on many problems, including new alloys to enable the Air Force to pierce the heat barrier (the speed at which many metals now used would melt). There already exists a small pilot plane that can fly that fast without melting and big ones are the new goal. Allegheny-Ludlum's scientists say they have special heat resistant steels that the auto industry can put into turbo jet engines. The problem they're working on now is to get the cost down so that the auto companies could put them in mass production.

American Brake Shoe, which has a plant here and a research center at Mahwah, N. J., is working on new alloys, new heat techniques.

Among the challenges that metallurgists today are being given by industry and defense — and licking or constantly improving upon — brake shoe scientists point out the following:
Tougher metals for crushing —

to get the iron out of one of the hardest rocks in the world, tantalum, and vastly expand the nation's iron resources.

Stronger metals for wearing and moving parts — to keep automated manufacturing from breaking down and losing production time.

Three purpose metals for highway construction — offering strength, hardness and impact resistance in the same piece, to meet the demands of the nation's multi-billion dollar highway expansion program.

Research directors here point out other problems of industry to be met. U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin, among others, are working on alloy steels to enable oil drillers to go even deeper into the earth where both pressures and heat become terrific.

Other metallurgists are looking for the right formula that could permit the substitution of cast alloys for welded or assembled parts in jet engines for the airlines.

The petrochemical industry also calls for special alloys to resist both high temperatures and powerful acids.

Improving the breed of metals is an endless — and expensive — task.

Scouting Movement In County Revamped Due To Increases

Increased activity in Scouting in Pickaway County has brought about a complete revamping of the movement, according to a 1955 report of service made to the county's community fund organization.

Guy Cline, judge of probate court, is the new district chairman, replacing Dr. J. M. Hedges. Ed Ebert is the new commissioner, working with a staff of seven men.

Five new units were established in three communities in the county last year, according to the report, serving 100 newly organized boys. At least seven others are expected to be formed during the year.

Membership in the Boy Scout organization for the county has increased by 92.3 percent since Jan. 1, 1955. Last year, the report states, 467 boys were served by the Scouting program.

SCOUTS, CUBS and Explorers have participated in community and civic events throughout the year. Their activities included: The Fair, Pumpkin Show, Memorial Day observance, Independence Day, collection of toys for needy children, messenger service at football games, etc.

In addition, Scouts have taken part in an active program. This includes: a turkey shoot, held primarily to promote safe gun handling; two district Camporees, the annual camp-outs; a mobilization carried out with the help of the National Guard, etc.

The leadership training committee has trained 60 volunteers and awarded certificates to them. In addition, 53 men and women completed a portion of their basic leadership training. The report emphasized that the Scouting movement in the county with outstanding accomplishments has shown a significant increase.

UP TO PRIVATE INDUSTRY
PRESUMABLY Sen. Albert Gore, of Tennessee, calls for a "crash program" of building atomic power plants.

Gore's contention is that private industry is failing to step in and build huge atomic power plants at a fast enough rate and therefore the U. S. is losing the lead in this field to Russia. He asks that the Atomic Energy Commission back a costly program to build six full-scale nuclear plants.

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss answers this by saying that private industry is correctly working first to develop economically competitive nuclear power. He said that Gore's program would waste the nation's effort in a "kilowatt race" with Russia and would result in a collection of "obsolescent" plants.

There are three elements to be considered here:

One—It will be far better and more economical for private firms to develop atomic power than the government. There is no "war" concern here to dictate government interference.

Two—Because this country is rich in other power resources, development is bound to be slower than in countries that are not. Why should the government step in and build atomic plants to compete with other power facilities?

Three—Better that the program start slowly and be accompanied by careful research and engineering to avoid "blind alley" methods to be outmoded by later developments. This will assure reaching atomic power that can compete economically with coal and water power when the time comes that it is needed.

JUNE

LESS IS HEARD than formerly of June as the ecstatic month of roses and brides and etc. True, more weddings still occur in June than in any other month, but the number is not as lopsided as it was in a former day. It is still the month of roses, but roses now are available the year around in most localities.

There is much to be said for June at that, although it has slipped somewhat from its former preeminent status. The over-all climate in June isn't bad, not too warm or too cold in most areas. And June ushers in Summer by the calendar, and Summer is the favorite season of many persons.

Perhaps what sets June apart as a dividing line between activities more than anything else is the ending of school and college terms. The boys and girls and the more blase youth from the college campuses are primed to make this the best of all Summers. Come September they will probably contend that it was, and their parents will add, "And how!"

GRADUATES FACE FUTURE

IT HAS BEEN said that "there is nothing quite so useless as a commencement address." Judging from many that are made this may be true.

This is the time of year when thousands of high school and college young people are, as the orators say, "going forth to take part in building a better tomorrow." As a matter of cold fact, they are doing nothing of the sort.

The graduate of today will be about 30 to 35 before he even gets a glimpse of the "mountains"—the accomplishments he can call his own, which make all of life worthwhile.

It is what to do with the 10 to 15 years between then and now a graduate ought to be advised. How to make the next 10 years useful in building experience, attitudes and knowledge of living, so that when the opportunity comes he will be prepared.

Life Is Full Of Mysteries

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Life is full of mysteries, and it puzzles me—Why so many horse players insist they are ahead of the game when they really aren't. Why, when people get a lot of money, they worry more about it than when they had little or none. Why brides who insist on a double ring wedding ceremony don't also give their fiances engagement rings.

Why a child would rather play in a mud puddle than in a schoolyard full of swings and slides.

How a young spider can learn to spin a beautiful web without once being spanked by its parents.

How a wife will refuse to ride in an airplane by herself, but is glad to make the trip if her husband goes along.

Where city pigeons go to die.

You rarely see a dead one in the streets.

Why doctors get more business from women, but undertakers get more from men.

Why a girl in a Bikini swim suit doesn't feel properly dressed without fresh toenail polish.

Where the expression arose "It's raining cats and dogs."

How a motorcycle owner is always able to find a pretty girl to ride on the rear seat.

These Days

It is impossible even to approximate the cost to this nation of the Prohibition experiment in social or economic terms. But one of the side effects is coming to the surface now and is about to be investigated by a Senate committee.

During Prohibition, the drinking habits of the American people became more general and widespread but no potable alcohol was legitimate except for sacramental or medicinal purposes. Liquor of all sorts, from fine wines to raw alcohol, was imported into the country and sold surreptitiously. The trade fell into the hands of bootleggers who were supplied by racketeers who were, in turn, supplied by theoretically legitimate distillers and vintners in Canada, Scotland, France, etc. Billions of dollars went into this trade.

The dollars had to be deposited in banks because there were too many dollars to keep in shoe boxes under a bed. As long as these dollars could evade being taxed, they could be owned anonymously. But in the United States, the anonymous ownership of cash money is dangerous, so it was found advisable to find ways and means to transport these untaxed dollars abroad, to legitimize them, to establish Swiss, Liechtenstein, Tangier, Monacan, Panamanian and other sorts of corporations to make it possible to reinvest these funds in American industry.

The best type of operation is a Liechtenstein corporation that keeps its money in a Swiss bank.

Prohibition laid the basis for this type of operation. Later came other enormous reservoirs of money. The dope traffic, for instance, has been important in international commerce for more than a century, was at one time wholly legitimate and huge fortunes have been established in it.

When the shipment of opium from India and Persia to China, for many years the principal consumer's market, became illegal by international agreement, the business grew larger, fell into various hands, and developed into the morphium, cocaine and heroin trade. The principal manufacturer is Red China; the leading consumer's market is the United States.

Again the money is big—billions of dollars. It has to find its way, through many hands, from the consumer to the manufacturer. It has to be transported in the form of cash dollars, secretly; it must evade taxation; it must be banked and converted into legitimate money. This is a very complicated traffic and the returns are enormous.

Another source of secret money is the Nazi holdings—Hitler's, Goering's, Goebbels' money. We do not even have estimates of the amounts, where this money was deposited, how it was banked and legitimized. There has been an inkling of Peron's secret money but not enough data to justify an opinion as to amount or where it is invested.

It is, however, becoming increasingly clear that when secret, untaxed money is made legitimate, particularly by the device of an anonymous Swiss bank account, often carried by a number instead of in the name of a person, and doing business under the guise of an anonymous corporation that can be organized in a number of countries, it returns to the United States either to purchase American businesses, to manipulate the market in securities or to operate cartels for retail goods in competition with American firms under advantageous reciprocal treaties. Everything is corrupted by this gimmick money which remains untaxed.

Forgetting old troubles gives one practice in forgetting the new ones constantly coming along.

To keep young, you must associate with the young, says a columnist. What! At 90 miles an hour?

What worries weight gainers is that they cannot be fat and fit their old clothes.

Thomas Hart Benton says he will not paint any more murals, adding "although if someone came along with enough dough I might." Most resolutions follow this pattern.

Is Flying Ruled Out For An Ailing Person?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERN though you are under a doctor's care, it may be perfectly all right for you to travel by air.

As a matter of fact, it's estimated that about 1,000,000 of the 34,500,000 passengers flown by regularly scheduled United States airlines in a single 12-month period suffered from some disease or disability.

Common Cold

The types of ailments ranged in severity from the common cold to advanced stages of cancer.

While there are some important exceptions—many of which we have discussed in an earlier column—the great majority of ambulatory patients can fly with no ill effects.

Many patients may find air travel the most convenient, comfortable and least fatiguing way to get about. This may be a determining factor when a patient is going somewhere for rest and convalescence.

Allergic and Sensitive

If you're allergic and sensitive to air-borne allergens, you'll probably find relief while flying because of the absence of excitants.

Patients in status asthmaticus probably had better not fly. However, flying usually is all right for those with mild asthma if they travel between attacks.

But occasionally an asthmatic may have an attack brought on by tension created by any kind of travel.

A word of caution is in order for patients with colostomies who plan to fly. During ascent you will find the colostomy bag tends to fill rapidly. Better be sure to empty it just before departure time.

Body Cavities

As a plane ascends, the gases in closed body cavities expand because of decreased atmospheric pressure.

The expansion of these gases may endanger anyone with appendicitis or deeply eroded peptic ulcers or some other serious weakness of the gastrointestinal wall.

In short, if you are in doubt, ask your doctor whether you can fly. And if he's not sure, or you can't locate him, check with the medical director of the airline you plan to use. He'll give you expert guidance.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J. D.: What foods should one use with hardening of the arteries avoided?

Answer: There is no one definite food which should be avoided.

However, it is believed by some authorities that the restriction of certain foods high in cholesterol or fat is of aid in preventing the progress of hardening of the arteries.

CHAPTER 40

VAL SAW Bruce only for brief moments in the days that followed. There were long periods when she was able to put him completely out of her mind. In the afternoons, she would catch the bus down to Montego Bay, swim in the tepid blue waters of Doctor's Cave, then lie on a grass mat in the hot sun. Lying in the sun soothed her nerves and allowed her to think things out in a clear, almost detached way.

One morning, having the following night off duty, Val caught the plane to Kingston, attended to some business and caught the same plane back after sundown. When the native boy brought her breakfast the next morning there was a large air-mail envelope on the tray. She slit it open with eager fingers, for by the writing and the postmark she knew it was from Dirk. There was an enclosure and she saw with surprise that it was an unopened letter addressed to Dr. Bruce Harriard at Guy's hospital, London. The handwriting was feminine and the envelope was crumpled.

She straightened herself against the pillows and began to read Dirk's letter.

"My darling," it began. "I know I won't hear from you until I write you first. I told you I loved you and you know, of course, I want to marry you. Things are smoothing down here. As you know, Aunt May's relatives have dropped the suit, but I've no intention of being completely unselfish about the money and just handing it back to those relatives who didn't care a jot for her. I've talked with Cousin Timothy and it's been agreed I'm to use some of the capital to modernize Stormhurst. Man o'r. Since it's too big to live in comfortably, we are going to turn the old place over to a children's convalescent charity and they'll provide what money I'm unable to out of Aunt May's estate for its upkeep."

"They were looking for just such a place and they jumped at it."

© 1955, Maysie Greig. Reprinted by permission of Avalon Books. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

But getting it for nothing. Your brother Tom put me on to them, and I understand the idea is to make him the resident doctor. It is to be called The Eileen Featherstone Children's Memorial Home.

"I'm going to use some of the money for necessary repairs on our own place, as well as making a comfortable apartment for Cousin Timothy when he leaves the Manor. He'll be company for Father when you and I—and I say you and I, darling, hopefully—are abroad collecting material for some of the new travel books I'm planning. By the way, the book I wrote about Fiji has not only found an American publisher but has been accepted in the Best Travel Book of the Month series. Now I can go on writing with the hope that at least a decent livelihood will come out of it."

"And now to another matter. I want you to get everything straightened out in your mind before you give the enclosed letter to Bruce. I think it is the letter Eileen wrote him the day before she died two years ago. I'm afraid Aunt May must have taken it from the silver tray where everyone in the house used to leave their letters for posting. I found it shoved away in a secret drawer at the back of her desk. So Bruce never received Eileen's letter, which explains a great deal."

"But listen, darling, if you and Bruce have worked out some plan for your own lives, it might be better if you didn't give him this letter. It might somehow spoil things for you. That's why I'm sending it to him through you."

"There is nothing more to say now, my darling, other than the words I said to you at the airport. I'm waiting for you. Ever, Dirk."

She read the letter through several times and then she took a shower and dressed. She went first to speak to Matron Cameron; afterwards she went to find Bruce in his office. It was the first time she had deliberately sought him out. He rose as she came in and looked at her in surprise. Her face was white and tense.

"Why, Val, has anything happened?" he asked anxiously. She sank down into a chair facing him. "Why did you tell Matron Cameron I intended to apply for the post in Mandeville?"

"I thought when we discussed the matter the other day we both agreed it would be a good idea," he said awkwardly.

Her blue eyes looked into his face. "I said I thought it would be a good idea for me to go away from here. I still think so—and that's why I'm going."

He looked back at her anxiously. "But if you're not going to take this post at Mandeville, where are you going, Val?"

She continued to look at him steadily. "I'm going back to England, Bruce."

"You're going back to Dirk?" he asked savagely. "That's it, isn't it?"

She hesitated a long time before she said quietly, "Maybe. Anyhow I'll have time to make up my mind on the homeward voyage. I'm leaving the hospital almost immediately. I'll be staying with friends until I sail next week. I've signed on as a stewardess."

Bruce pushed back the chair from his desk and started to pace the room worriedly. Presently he swung back toward her and said angrily and accusingly, "You know what you're doing to me, Val? You're giving Dirk the victory for the second time."

"Can love die in a moment? Her love for Bruce died in Val's heart in that moment, finally and painlessly."

"I had an air-mail letter from Dirk this morning. He enclosed a letter for you, Bruce," she said.

"A letter he'd written to me?" She shook her head. "No. A letter which was written to you by someone else quite a while ago. I think you'll recognize the writing." She passed the unopened letter across to him.

Walter Lonnegran tells about a backwoods stalwart who made his first trip to the big city, and was conducted to the vestibule of a new skyscraper. One door seemed to fascinate him. An old, weather-beaten lady stepped in, a red light flashed, and off she went. Seconds later the elevator descended, the door opened and out stepped a magnificently beautiful girl.

"Gee whilleckers!" marveled the backwoodsman. "I should have brought my wife with me!"

Members Of Westminster Bible Class Hold Picnic

Wolford Home Scene Of Event

The Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church held its annual picnic Tuesday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford of near Williamsport.

Thirty-two members and the following guests attended the picnic: Miss Betty McCoy, the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell, Mrs. Lester Wolford, Mrs. Bogg, Mrs. Lawrence Wolford, Mrs. Paul Moore and Mrs. Marion Goode.

Dinner was served from a buffet table and members and guests were seated at small tables throughout the house.

Following the dinner Mrs. C. E. Davis conducted a business session. Plans were made to hold a picnic with Mrs. Loring Evans at the Lancaster Camp in July.

The remainder of the day was spent in visiting and a tour of Mrs. Wolford's garden, where she had a variety of garden flowers and shrubs. Pictures were also taken of the group.

Posture Noted In Summer Frocks And Bathing Suits

Summer is the season when a woman suddenly becomes aware of her shoulders and back!

All year long, they have been hidden under dresses. With bathing suits and bare-topped summer frocks, they are out in the open and do not always measure up.

Posture affects them. If you have been slumping over, shoulders may be rounded and back may be developing an ugly hump. Clothes camouflage both these defects to some degree, but in a bathing suit they stand out.

Better take steps if your posture is this poor. Concentrate on standing tall and straight. Sure, it takes effort. Certainly, it seems more comfortable to slump. But in the long run, it is not. Poor posture is not pretty and can cause many aches.

Next thing to consider is skin. Have you been forgetting that your back and shoulders need cleansing, too? If so, they may have developed blemishes.

Get out that bath brush nightly. Lather it with soap and scrub away skin troubles. After a soaping, rinse thoroughly under the shower. It is also a wise idea to apply some astringent to close pores.

Back skin tends to be oily, but those rare few who have dry skin in this area should apply a soothing skin lotion that will lubricate and smooth the skin.

Local BPW Club Members Attend 36th Convention

"Today's Leadership Doorways" was the theme of the 36th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, held in Toledo.

The convention was opened with Helen Reisinger, president, presiding. Reports were given by state officers, committee chairmen and the district directors, at which time Miss Mary Kennedy of Circleville, who is district director of District No. 10, presented her report.

A reception followed the business session with the Toledo BPW Club acting as hostess.

The first session's feature was the annual banquet, when state board members were presented with corsages of red carnations in honor of Mrs. Frank Lausche, who was at the speakers table.

Speaker for the evening was Frances P. Bolton, member of Congress, 22nd Ohio District. The title of her subject was, "We Women."

During the "Awards Breakfast," held the second day of the session, Chillicothe and Greenfield of the local district were presented awards for membership.

Following the breakfast, a closing business session was held with the installation of new officers. The installation services were conducted by Miss Jeannette Williams of Lebanon, past state president, for the following:

Mrs. Dorothy Fleethner of Findlay, president; Miss Lenora Mills of Toledo, first vice-president; Miss Julia Labajetta of Kent, second vice-president; Mrs. Chole Maloney of Jackson, third vice-president; Miss Vera Barber of Eaton, auditor; Miss Noan Hildebrand of Maumslburg, recording secretary; Mrs. Edith Strommer of Bellevue, treasurer and Miss Kennedy of Circleville, as one of the District Directors installed.

Five delegates and five alternates were also elected to attend the Biennial National Convention, to be held from July 1-6 in Miami Beach, Fla. Miss Kennedy of the local club was elected an alternate for the state of Ohio.

Miss Elma Rains of the Circleville club acted as one of the tellers through the entire convention session, which had an attendance of 1042 registered.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Holbrook of Circleville Route 3 are announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Freda, to Mr. Carl M. Lindsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Lindsey of Circleville Route 3.

The open church wedding will be an event of 2:30 p. m. June 17 in the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

Beautiful Gowns Designed For Bride's Special Date

Girls who are looking forward to a romantic date with the preacher this June will be thrilled with the latest styled bridal gowns.

The gowns are designed to suit any taste ranging from the traditional to the modern short wedding dress.

For the girl who wants a short gown, the above picture shows an embroidered Swiss organdy, with pretty scalloping at neckline and hem. The tiny sleeves are daintily shirred and the wide neckline is filled with nylon tulle.

One of the floor-length gowns is nylon chiffon over taffeta, with the bodice completely worked in tiny pin tucks. Valenciennes lace edges the short sleeves, the sweetheart neckline and wide midriff.

The matching headpiece is a little Dutch cap of nylon chiffon trimmed with lace and a double-fullness fingertip veil of silk illusion.

Ohio GOPsters Worried About Voters' Apathy

Republican Leaders Map Plans To Stir Up Big November Turnout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican strategists are whipping up a drive to overcome voter apathy displayed in Ohio's primary election.

Ballot marking last month fell about a quarter of a million below official estimates. But the Republican showing was worse than expected while Democrats did better than they had hoped.

GOP State Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Akron said the returns pointed to changes in Ohio's nominally Republican political complexion and the need for a vigorous fall campaign.

"My one concern," he said, "is that the Republicans are too complacent about the November election."

He indicated that candidates shouldn't count on President Eisenhower's popularity and Ohio's reputation as a Republican state to pull them through.

"This isn't that kind of a state any more," Bliss asserted. "The old straight tickets are out. The office-type ballot requires a sales campaign for every candidate."

Office-type ballots group candidates of both parties under the office they seek. They were designed to end straight ticket voting with a single "X" under party emblems on old style ballots. Voters now must mark each candidate for whom they want their vote to count.

Bliss accepted that Republicans have the kind of ticket that will win this year.

"To win in Ohio," he explained, "you have to have qualified candidates and adequate financing, plus a vigorous campaign."

Without elaborating on financing Bliss asserted GOP candidates are better qualified from the President on down.

Gubernatorial nominee C. William O'Neill, rounding out his third term as attorney general, served 12 years in the Legislature, two of them as speaker of the Ohio House.

U.S. Sen. George H. Bender, re-nominated without opposition, served five terms in the state Senate and seven in Congress before election in 1954 to the unexpired term of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Bliss expressed confidence that O'Neill and other candidates for state offices would win. He said Bender had a good chance to beat Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche if Ohioans realize that Republican control of the Senate might hinge on Bender's election.

"Washington people say Bender has an excellent record in the Senate," Bliss reported. "He is informed on bills and has done the kind of job that entitles him to re-election."

Bliss predicted that Republicans would retain control of the Legislature, pick up a couple of seats from Democrats in Congress and "crack through into the court-houses which we haven't done for some years." He declined to "pin-point for the opposition" the congressional seats Republicans hoped to gain.

The state chairman said Negroes are showing more interest in the Republican party and figured that gains would come from that direction. He appeared unconcerned

Only One Graduate In School For Blind

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky School for the Blind has only one high school graduate this year.

Full commencement exercises are to be held tonight, however, for Miss Caola Mae Warfield of Henderson, Dr. Whitney M. Young president of Lincoln Institute, will deliver the commencement address.

The number of graduates has been decreasing annually due to the school's policy of integrating its students into local public schools where possible.

Army Pigeon Said Original Yardbird

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—This guy may be the original yardbird: An Army carrier pigeon based here quit on a mission Saturday because of rain. And the same thing had happened the Saturday before.

Now he's lost.

The Army said Tuesday if the bird is ever found it will fly—in an airplane—to Ft. Monmouth, N.J., for a refresher course.

about lack of Republican support from labor leaders. Records show that rank file working men vote as they please, he explained.

Bliss remained non-committal about reports that an influx of southern workers into Ohio industrial centers, the Portsmouth-Waverly atomic energy area and Ohio River developments favored Democrats.

He asserted that Republicans had the votes to win if they went to the polls. "Candidates must get that 'add on vote' in Ohio to win," Bliss said.

He described the "add on vote" as that lying between confirmed members of both parties who customarily voted for candidates of their own political faith.

State headquarters, Bliss said, will develop a basic campaign to capture the "add on vote" for the entire Republican ticket. Both state and local GOP organizations will concentrate on getting out the vote with the help of individual campaigns by candidates, he explained.

Sokolsky's These Days

It is not possible for such money to function as brazenly in Great Britain because of the tight control of the Bank of England and the Treasury over the pound sterling and foreign currencies, but such money can be invested in British Crown colonies and in Dominions and can work its way into British enterprises indirectly through Empire Preference.

However, it is more difficult in that country than in the United States where this untaxed money is now coming back to buy up American industries, often munition industries, without any particular government agency having the right under any law to check on the enterprises. Sometimes the management of such money is in the hands of aliens, although who the actual owners of the money are is never disclosed. The Swiss banking law forbids such disclosure.

What is essential is a full-dress Congressional investigation with the object of having a law passed protecting the United States from this untaxed money now pouring into this country and with which honest, tax-paying Americans cannot compete.

Police Say Man Lifted Too Much

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It was Kenneth Dobler's job to lift things at the warehouse.

Detective Sgt. Emmett Hahn said Dobler, a fork-lift operator at Sears, Roebuck & Co., has admitted "lifting" about $6,000 worth of things there since 1949.

Sgt. Hahn said the stolen goods included a furnace, a 30-gallon water heater, a 30-gallon septic tank, an electric range, copper tubing, soil pipe, fire brick, wall cabinets and 42 bundles of asphalt shingles.

Sgt. Hahn said Dobler recently finished a new house and he took a power mower home Monday.

Dobler was charged with theft of the $59 mower.

Grandmother, 71, Due To Face Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—Seven years ago a 64-year-old grandmother confessed she had choked 4-year-old Robert Shaw because she had "an urge to kill."

Tuesday, Mrs. Tillie Maschmeier, now 71, was declared "restored to reason" by Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent of the Lima State Hospital.

Judge Joseph H. Silbert ordered preliminaries for her trial on first-degree murder charges. The pre-

Moonshiners Not Mechanized Yet

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The moonshining business isn't altogether mechanized yet.

South Carolina liquor agents say they arrested 63 persons while smashing 126 stills during May. And they confiscated 20 trucks and cars and two boats along with one wagon, one horse, and a mule.

liminaries include examination by court psychiatrists.

If they agree with Dr. Bushong that she is now sane, Silbert will order her to stand trial.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a high school girl, 15, accustomed to getting average and above-average marks in my studies. At the last report I did quite well, except in one subject: Art, in which I had expected to make my best grade.

I had been doing quite well in art class, at least in my opinion, until one day we were having figure drawing lessons. After the assigned subjects were finished, we had time in which to draw a figure of our own choosing.

I thought and thought, trying to hit on a good idea, and finally I made a sketch of the well-known statue—the Venus de Milo. When my teacher saw the sketch, he ordered me into the hall, where he gave me a private and stern lecture on the laws of society—or that's what he seemed to be talking about.

Later, when final reports on students' work were made, my art teacher gave me a "below-average" mark; and wrote that I wouldn't cooperate with the others in class.

Do you think I was given a fair deal? I did nothing wrong. In his art school days, my teacher probably sketched nudes from live models and thought nothing of it—just as I saw nothing vulgar in my sketch of the Venus de Milo.

E. D.

DEAR E. D.: Whatever the real inside story of the art teacher's upset, he handled the incident of the sketch pretty badly, I think. It probably wasn't the drawing,

Detroit's Tiger Not So Timid In Play Now

Michigan Outfit Wins 7 In Row, Has AL By The Tail At Moment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's been a long haul, but Detroit's not-so-timid Tigers have the American League by the tail at the moment. They're sprinting along on a seven-game winning streak.

Three weeks ago Manager Bucky Harris had a last-place club. He's still 5 1/2 games out of the lead, but up in the first division and only a skip and a jump out of third.

Every one of the Tigers has put his bat to work in the seven-game success story—longest in the majors this season. Harvey Kuenn, batting .441 in that span, and Ray Boone, at .407, are the big guns.

Kuenn was 3-for-6 and Boone hammered home five runs with a homer, double and two singles in five trips Tuesday night as the Tigers outpowered Boston's Red Sox 14-11. Frank House, batting .571 on a part-time basis in Harry's platooning plans in the streak, muscled in with a three-run homer.

New York's first-place lead dwindled to 3 1/2 games, meanwhile, as Kansas City handed the Yankees—who made five errors—their fourth straight defeat 7-4 despite homers by Yogi Berra, Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle, who hit his 21st. Cleveland, with Bob Lemon winning his seventh, took over second by beating Baltimore 8-3. Chicago's White Sox slipped to third with a 3-1 loss at Washington.

Things are much cozier in the National. Pittsburgh, despite a 7-3 defeat at Chicago, has a four-percentage-point hold on the lead over Cincinnati, which trounced Philadelphia 9-4. It's a virtual three-way tie for first, with St. Louis three points back of the Redlegs after beating New York 3-1 while the Brooklyn Dodgers tripped Milwaukee to fourth 6-1.

Don Roger Craig's two-hitter. For all their thumping, the Tigers had a ninth-inning scare as the Red Sox scored six times. Don Buddin socked a three-run homer in the rally off reliever Walt Masterson. Billy Klaus and Jackie Jensen also homered for the Sox, off starter Virgil Trucks, who won his second. Bob Porterfield was the loser.

Wally Moon's two-run triple beat Wm Hearn and the Giants in the sixth as Willard Schmidt, winless since May 8, spun a five-hitter. The Cubs walloped Bob Friend, who sought his 10th victory, for five runs with two out in the third as Warren Hacker, winning his first, shut out the Pirates until the ninth, when Frank Thomas homered.

Aged Gelding Cops Lebanon Feature

LEBANON (AP)—Single Scott, a 13-year-old black gelding, beat its own best time last night winning the featured sixth race at Lebanon Raceway.

With Alvin Tucker at the reins, the Campbellsville, Ky., horse was only fourth at the first turn, but turned on speed and took the lead from Peggy Barnes in the last 20 yards.

The 2:06.4 time Single Scott posted for the mile bettered its best previous circuit of 2:09.1.

Redlegs Get Another Sniff Of 2nd Place

Cincinnati Redlegs are back again, breathing the heady air of second place in the National League.

Twice before this year the Reds have shinned up the league ladder to second place, only to falter and fall back.

The Reds' 9-4 victory last night over Philadelphia's Phillies helped boost them back to their present eminence—four percentage points away from the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Two Cincinnati "muscle men," Wally Post and rookie Frank Robinson, were in good form Tuesday night, Post belting two homers, one for three runs. Outfielder Robinson got his 11th round-tripper hit of the season.

In all, the Redlegs got 13 hits. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall, who has had trouble getting started this year, registered his second win after getting into and out of trouble in the fifth and eighth innings.

The Phils loaded the bases in the fifth, helped by a wild Nuxhall throw, and put two runs across. Philadelphia got its last two tallies in the eighth on a pair of doubles by Granny Hamner and Stan Lopata. Del Ennis' fly out that put Lopata on third, Lopata coming home when Willie Jones was thrown out at first by Roy McMillan.

The third game of the current Redleg series with the Phils comes tonight, with Brooks Lawrence seeking his seventh win on the mound, opposing Stu Miller.

Wally Post Likes Homers In Pairs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wally Post of the Cincinnati Redlegs apparently likes to hit his home runs in pairs.

The hard-hitting outfielder hit two home runs in one game for the third time this season last night as the Redlegs thumped the Phils 9-4.

He also had a pair in each game of a doubleheader against the Chicago Cubs April 29. In 1955, Wally turned the trick three times.

Bobby Boyd Set To Joust Savage

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Boyd, second ranking middleweight contender in Ring Magazine's latest ratings, goes after his ninth straight victory tonight against the fighter who last defeated him, Milo Savage.

The lanky Chicago Negro, who lost to the 30-year-old Savage in New York on April 18, 1955, is an 8-5 favorite in the nationally televised (9 p. m. EST, ABC) return match in Chicago Stadium.

Boyd, 22, is unbeaten since Savage gave him a lesson as a devastating workman on the inside. Since then he has stacked up eight victims in a row.

Moore Seeks Only Shot At Heavy Title

LONDON (AP)—Archie Moore today brushed aside all questions about another defense of his light heavyweight title and said:

"I'm the best heavyweight in the world and that's the title I am after."

The cagey old fellow from San Diego, Calif., cleared his last hurdle on the way to the crown vacated by Rocky Marciano with a 10th-round TKO of Yolande Pompey of Trinidad in a light heavyweight title fight here last night.

"We had signed contracts for this fight in London so we had to go ahead with it," Moore said.

"Now I want that heavyweight title. I'm entitled to it. Marciano nominated me as his logical successor. Floyd Patterson and Tommy Jackson are fighting Friday. There's talk of a fight against the winner in September. I can't get home soon enough."

Patterson and Jackson hold no terrors for Moore, who says he's 39, is reported to be 42, but who fights like a man of 30.

Moore let Pompey do most of the work in the early rounds and the Trinidad fighter was ahead on points at the end of the eighth.

Then came the ninth and Moore pounded Pompey with crushing rights and left hooks.

Blood spurted from a deep cut over Pompey's left eye. In the 10th, Moore went in for the kill.

Pittsburgh's Big Delight Is Its Upstart Pirate '9'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—For the first time since Ralph Kiner left town, Pirate baseball is a vibrant page one story in Pittsburgh's daily life.

Bobby Bragan's upstarts from the basement have captivated the long hungry fans here. And from the Golden Triangle to distant cities, lovers of the underdog are jumping on the Pirate bandwagon.

A cynical visitor inclined to shrug off the Pirate spurt as "one of those things" got religion quickly. Pittsburgh won round one before the bellhop pocketed his tip and closed the hotel room door after flipping on the television set.

The TV announcer must have been clairvoyant. "I'd like to dedicate the next number to the experts (he said 'experts' with a sneer) who picked the Pirates to finish last... they all laughed... 'Who's got the last laugh now?'"

On the way to the ball park

Top Hatters Split London Twin Bill

The local Top Hat softballers split a double-header with the London Eagles Tuesday night at the London diamond.

Behind the tight pitching of Harry Strawser, the Top Hatters won the opener 4-1. The big blow for the locals was Bill Ankrom's home run in the 4th inning.

In the second game, marred by errors, Top Hatter pitcher Stillman Morrison dropped a 5-0 decision to the Eagles.

U.S., Red China Join Net Group

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The United States, Communist China and 17 other nations of East and West today joined in forming the "International Tennis Veterans Federation."

Listed as aims of the new organization are fostering of tennis among "aging persons encouraging young players and fighting professionalism."

Age limit: over 45.

Red Murff, 34-year-old rookie pitcher with Milwaukee, completed 28 of 35 starts for Dallas in 1955.

Snead Says His 'Play 'Stinking'

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Snead, who has blown half a dozen chances to win the National Open Golf Championship, has a single word to describe his prospect in the annual tournament next week.

It's "stinking."

"If I could get my touch on the greens the way I've done the times (three) I've won the Masters and some other tournaments, I'd figure my odds pretty good," the rhythm man from Virginia said. "But I'm stinking."

Sam checked into town today for defense of his Round Robin championship at Wykagyl in nearby Westchester County, starting Thursday. After Sunday's final rounds, he sets off for Rochester, N. Y., and the 56th annual Open.

Ohio Public Links Golfers Eyeing Title

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's public links golfers are drawing a bead on the state amateur championship this year, a title no fee course player has ever captured.

The pay-as-you-go contingent will have 24 qualifiers in the amateur field at Mansfield's Westbrook Club for the July 9-14 match play event, and the Ohio Public Links Assn. is trying to line up its finest talent to contest with the private clubbers.

Each of the eight districts will be permitted to select its public links entrants in any way it desires. E. O. Gifford of Columbus, treasurer of the fee course group, said today. Entries, accompanied by the $5 tournament fee, must be in Gifford's hands by July 2.

Cincinnati, Youngstown and Steubenville districts will be allowed two public links entrants each in the amateur. Toledo, Dayton and Columbus districts get three each, Akron four and Cleveland five.

"Districts which exceed their quota of entrants are asked to send in the extra names, with the entry fees," Gifford said. "Then, if any district fails to fill its quota, alternates from the other districts will be permitted to play."

Joe Patton of Steubenville, secretary of the publiclinksters, observed: "This is the year we're going after the amateur title. Jack Zimmerman of Dayton almost made it last year, holding a four-up lead at one point in the finals, but he finally lost out. We hope to throw our finest players into this year's tournament."

The state public links tourney, scheduled Aug. 9-11 at Toledo's

Park Meters Earn $2,563 During May

Circleville's parking meters collected a total of $2,563 during the month of May.

The city's parking meter income has been in the spotlight more than ever before during the past few months because of plans to set up at least two off-street parking lots in the downtown district. The curbstone parking meter money would be an important factor in financing such projects.

Chairman George Crites of city council's finance committee revealed the latest monthly parking meter collection when he submitted the May report of City Auditor Lillian Young.

THE REPORT, showing funds, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted by council as follows:

General Fund $9,479.28, $15,163.41, $11,125.85;

Water Works Operation Fund $8,173.59, 4,580.03, 42,146.83;

Sewage Disposal Fund $1,319.43, 2,162.11, 6,277.71;

Street Construction, and Repair Fund $19,173.99, 6,906.72, 13,994.49;

Water Works Ext. Imp. Fund $630.27, 10,789.44;

Water Works Trust Fund 130, 110, 3,065;

Police Pension Fund $321.83, 390.67, 7,612.96;

Fireman Pension Fund $315.83, 125, 26,582.14;

Parking Meter Collection $2,563.

Cincinnati U Due For Huge Bequest

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati will probably get more than $1 million under the will of the late Miss Mary Hanna, U. C. officials report.

Ralph C. Bursiek, university vice president said the Hanna bequest was the largest in U. C. history. The will provides $100,000 specifically for the U. C. School of Medicine and one-half of the estate to the university.

Public Hearing Puts It All Up To Lawmakers

firm would be nucleus for development of the trading spot. It would be located north of Hargus Creek between Court and Pickaway streets.

Shaefer declared at the outset that he "did not come down here to join in a shouting contest," a reference ostensibly to William Ammer's manner. The prosecutor shouted his arguments and paced back and forth in front of the councilmen, frequently shaking his arm toward leaders of the rezoning move.

EARLY in his talk, when subdued chuckles and comments were heard from the 5-some spectators, Ammer paused to ask: "Did you have something further to say, Mr. Shaefer?" If the Columbus attorney replied, it was not audible.

Shaefer spoke first in the debate, expected to be the last public argument on the subject outside of council.

The Columbus attorney briefly retraced signs of growth in Circleville and the need for more business expansion. The city can achieve this expansion, he said, through the shopping center. The area it would occupy, he declared, would merely be a northern extension of the present business section.

"Competition is healthy," he told the gathering. "It would provide an opportunity for progressive local business people, and for good investment."

Shaefer said he did not believe the planning commission approached the question with "an open mind," and cited his negotiations with Ludwig Haecker, chairman of that body.

Shaefer told Haecker refused to give him the names of those who mailed in ballots for a special property owner poll conducted by the commission. Shaefer charged that all of the eligible property owners did not receive ballots, and that the poll itself was conducted in "what seemed to be a careless manner."

SHAEFER quoted Haecker as saying he declined to reveal the names of the property owners and how they voted "because it would cause dissension." Haecker had announced in advance of the poll that comments added to the ballots by the property owners would be kept confidential.

In the way the commission handled the poll, Shaefer said, "there may have been some indication of bias."

The function of the planning commission, Shaefer said, "should be to plan for the future—not to serve as a protective association for any one group."

The Columbus lawyer scoffed at the claim that the shopping center would cause traffic hazards for school children and also encourage crime. "We don't intend to permit vice, gambling and racketeering," he said. "All we want to do is open a grocery store."

In reference to a counter-proposal that the shopping center be located along Route 23 in the new North Annex, Shaefer explained: "We feel a northern location would split our business community. We feel it would hurt more than help you."

The planning commission, he said, is trying to limit normal growth of the city.

YOUNG, who appeared in behalf of Guy Rader, one of the property owners in favor of the rezoning plan, followed Shaefer.

He said he feels that the big mistake made by the planning body was in viewing the matter in the light of individual interests, instead of "thinking what was best for the whole community." Young pointed out that it is often inevitable that individual interests must suffer for progress of the community as a whole.

"When you reduce your consideration to whose property will be hurt and whose property will not be hurt," he said, "then you lose sight of what is good for all the community."

"What do you think would happen if all the residents of the city were permitted to vote on this? I dare say they would pass it two to one."

The views of the opposition, Young said, might well be summed up in the words: "I'm for community progress, but only if it is out on the edge of town."

Young said council should keep in mind that Ammer is opposed to the shopping center plan merely because his home property would be affected.

"Let's raise our sights a little," he urged council, "and then decide what will be better for all of Circleville."

AMMER OPENED his talk by telling council: "When you have so many other important things before you, it's absurd that you should have to take time for such a monstrosity as this."

Ammer said Young was correct in saying the good of the whole community should come first, "but where does he get that assumption that the people of Circleville would vote two to one in favor of it?" Ammer said he has received calls from all sections of the city supporting his stand, and that many persons have stopped him on the street to urge him to continue the fight.

"They know," he shouted, "that if it (the rezoning) is done along Hargus Creek, it can be done in their own neighborhoods—no matter where they live. Zoning would be dead in Circleville."

Ammer declared that top officials of the Kroger company had admitted they "wouldn't want the thing near my home."

He praised the planning commission and denounced "selfish interests" behind the rezoning effort. He was especially vigorous in his defense of the planning body.

"It's a disgrace when you can come here and slander these fine men of the commission," he said. "I never thought it would come to this."

The commission had the right to refuse information on how the poll votes were cast, Ammer claimed, under privileges of the American secret ballot. Then he added:

"They (rezoning advocates) come back time and time again to pit neighbor against neighbor, and to spread confusion and hate! Who is behind it, Mr. Stewart? Why don't you lay all the cards on the table?"

The shopping center interests, Ammer said, have disclosed that they studied properties on E. Main and W. Main streets, "south of town," and in the North Annex. "But they didn't want to pay the price," he declared. "They wanted it cheap."

Ammer attacked Shaefer's reference to dividing the business community if the shopping center were in the Northend. He said the area along the creek is "five or six blocks" from the heart of the city, and asked:

"Wouldn't that separate the business community?"

AMMER THEN reviewed arguments he had voiced several times before against the shopping center, and accused supporters of the plan of "coming down here with the big city push."

In closing his talk, Ammer presented a petition signed by property owners in the Springhollow Road vicinity. The petition is in opposition to the rezoning.

Ammer closed with the assertion that to permit the rezoning would be a community error comparable to that of "squaring the circle" in the days of Old Roundtown.

In closing remarks, Shaefer told council: "He (Ammer) is complaining because his ox is being gored—and I don't blame him. But all that we ask you to remember is that this is the only basis for his complaints."

Eaton Innkeeper Indicted By Jury

EATON (AP)—The Preble County grand jury yesterday indicted tavern operator Mike Wilczynski, 45, on a charge of second degree murder in the shooting death of a patron.

The victim, John C. Wright, 23, Richmond, Ind., was killed last May 19, Wilczynski claimed the

Lausche Hoping For Portion Of N-S Turnpike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche says he hopes bond money might be available to finance some segment of a proposed second Ohio turnpike route.

Gov. Lausche said Tuesday the decision of investment houses that the entire north-south turnpike project could not be financed on reasonable terms was disappointing but understandable under the present bond market conditions.

"My hopes," he said, "are that out of turnpike bond money we will be able to build at least either that part of the highway running from Cincinnati to U. S. 40 or that segment running from Pennsylvania to Ohio Turnpike No. 1."

Blythe & Co., Inc., of New York, recommended postponing construction of a Cincinnati to Cincinnati toll road.

The recommendation was disclosed Tuesday at a meeting of the Ohio Turnpike Commission.

Shooting came after Wright and several other men menaced him.

Possible Visit By Ike To Ohio Talked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A possible visit to Ohio by President Eisenhower next fall is expected to be one of the major topics for discussion today as Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman from Ohio, opens a round of campaign conferences here.

Bliss was scheduled to meet this afternoon with Ohio's two Republican senators, John W. Bricker and George H. Bender, and Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, G. O. P. national committeeman. They will lay plans for a meeting in Columbus next Monday of Ohio delegates to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco next August.

Tonight Bliss will give a dinner party for Ohio GOP congressional nominees and GOP candidates for statewide offices. Campaign strategy will be discussed, Bliss says.

Bliss told newsmen Tuesday he felt reasonably certain Eisenhower would "make at least one appearance in Ohio." He added that it would be a television appearance.

Bliss said several cabinet members and other administration leaders also would visit Ohio during the campaign to urge reelection of Bender.

Before returning to Columbus Thursday night, Bliss plans to confer with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and other administration leaders.

Van Wert All Set For Peony Festival

VAN WERT (AP)—It's Peony Festival time in Van Wert. And this northwestern Ohio city is a riot of floral color—peonies, of course.

Highwater marks on today's program will be the parades which will be made up of 42 visiting bands and 23 floats. One was due this afternoon, the other tonight at 8:30.

Lt. Gov. John Brown crowned the festival queen, Janis Beatty, during the afternoon while Gov. Frank J. Lausche will do the honors tonight.

A POOR LITTLE GUY LIKE YOU... IT'S TOO HEAVY I'LL CARRY IT!

I LIFTED IT OUT, DIDN'T I?

YES, BUT TO CARRY IT ALL THE WAY HOME IS DIFFERENT!

I CAN DO IT!

LOOK, Y' WANT PEOPLE T' MAKE FUN OF YOUR OLD UNCLE FOR OVERWORKING A LITTLE KID?

MUGGS

SAY, GROVER, I THOUGHT YOU AND YOUR BROTHER WERE GOING TO RACE YOUR BOATS IN THE BATHTUB.

I'M SORRY I EVER CHALLENGED HIM, NOW!

WHY WHAT HAPPENED—DID HE BEAT YOU?

NO!—BUT WHEN MOTHER HEARD THE WATER RUNNING IN THE TUB SHE DECIDED TO GIVE HIM A BATH!

...AND IT'S MY TURN NEXT!

TILLIE

A MR. BROWN IS COMING RIGHT OVER TO BUY SOME OF YOUR SURPLUS MATERIAL

GOOD!

WE'VE GOT PLENTY TO SPARE!

MR. SIMPKINS—SKIP THE FORMALITIES—HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT? YOU NAME IT.

THAT WASN'T BROWN!

HOW MUCH DO YOU WANT TO DONATE TO THE HOME FOR AGED ACROBATS?

ETTA KETT

DAD! I'WALLY IS ACTUALLY PESTERING ME TO GET HITCHED!

NICE BOY! BUT GOING INTO THIS MARRIAGE BUSINESS COSTS PLENTY!

I KNOW—BUT DIDN'T YOU SAY MARRIAGE IS A FIFTY-FIFTY DEAL?

THAT'S RIGHT!

WELL, WE FIGURED WALLY'S FOLKS COULD GIVE US THE FURNITURE!

—AND YOU AND MOM COULD GIVE US A HOUSE!

BRADFORD

WHO IS MORE IMPORTANT TO YOU, BRICK BRADFORD OR MILLIE MIFFIN?

STOP IT!

ALL RIGHT! WHERE DO YOU WANT TO GO IN THE TIME-TOPI?

YOU'LL KNOW IN DUE TIME!

I'LL TRICK THIS GUY SOME—SEND THE ORDERLY HOW I HAVE TO GET BACK TO THE HOSPITAL TO MILLIE! MAYBE IF I STALL, BRICK WILL GET MY NOTE AND SHOW UP.

How Goes The Cold War Now?

Many Soviet Contradictions Play Role In New Tensions

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of four articles evaluating the current Cold War in the light of new economic maneuvers by the Soviet Union.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union has H-bombs and a frightfully bad system of highways. It has super-jet planes and lags 25 years behind the United States in automotive production.

Russians pioneered soil study, and Soviet agriculture is in turmoil.

Russia produced topnotch scientists for two centuries, but the U.S.S.R. has a shortage of educated people.

The Soviet Union has a vast population and a shortage of manpower.

These contradictions are important as the Soviet Union and the United States enter a long economic-political contest in which communism hopes to pave the way to world domination.

Brilliant Soviet advances in modern techniques make up only half the picture. The other half keeps Soviet leaders on the edge of fear. The great basic contradiction is that even with great strength, the Soviet Union is weak and global war is unthinkable.

Russia, for example, has modern jet transports in operation. It can produce such things because it can assign top priorities in peacetime by edict and concentrate manpower, materials and capital. But at the same time it is neglecting sectors in which the West goes steadily forward.

The Soviet Union has awesome armed strength. It has no shortage of brains and materials for heavy industry, which produces for war. The Soviet bloc and China can present the lure of a vast market for free world nations hungry for trade. The Communist fifth column is in a position to capitalize on the postwar avalanche of nationalism and western identification with colonialism.

But the Soviet Union also is weak. Staggering problems stand in the way of the Soviet global program.

The glaring weakness is the consumer economy. The Soviet consumer, cheated first by Stalin's hunger for industrial power and then by the war effort, is being put off again by the new long-term drive for economic supremacy.

It will take years for the Russians to begin coping with the extreme shortage of housing alone. Urban population increases faster than the regime wants to cope with it. Materials and labor for housing are short because of the vast appetite of heavy industry.

Agriculture remains another weakness. The supply of trains for a growing urban population is less than in 1938. Farmers are ordered to increase their gross output 70 per cent by 1960, to double production of meat and milk. Vegetables—even the staple potato—are in short supply.

More manpower—from the armed forces if necessary—must be thrown into agriculture if the Russians hope to make their domestic economy strong enough to compete effectively for influence abroad.

The regime is not thinking primarily of its consumer population. In Premier Bulganin's words increased production will step up "exports to friendly countries"—that is, be in a better position to compete with the West.

Strategic planning, by Soviet calculation, will involve at least 10 years in which industries must be more economically distributed with relation to raw materials and transport problems. There are serious lags in coal production. Bureaucracy prevents the most economical use of oil resources.

The state of Soviet transport would be a serious menace in wartime. There are great strains on the inadequate rail system which carried 87 per cent of Soviet domestic transport in 1955. The problem of automotive transport is acute. There is an acute shortage of tires. There is pressing need for good roads.

Technology and education, despite advertised Soviet advances, show sharp failures. Educated youth are little inclined to make homes in remote and uncomfortable areas. Only half the workers in Soviet industry have had more than four years' schooling. Specialists are trained under bureaucratic control of ministries, trusts and factories.

On the political front, de-Stalinization is a certain weakness. It seems to be a lollypop for the Soviet people, once again ordered to wait for the consumer goods they long for. Stalin gets the blame for all that is wrong in the U.S.S.R.

While the needs of Red China and the attempt to compete for world favor through exports continue to be a drain on the Soviet economy, the consumer must wait. But revolutionary communism is not the force it once was in Russia. The Soviet structure is changing. The people have demonstrated they can be impatient. Their pressure will be felt more and more in the Kremlin in the next 10 years.

Next: Americans take stock.

The famous Mason-Dixon line was established to settle disputes over private land grants and not as a dividing line between the North and South.

COUNCIL PREPARES FOR ZONING VERDICT

Vaccine Developed From Own Cancer Given To 30 Patients In Experiment

DETROIT (AP)—Some 30 cancer-stricken humans have been given vaccines made from their own cancers, a Boston physician disclosed today.

It is too early to tell whether they benefited. But there are signs they did, and good experimental reasons to think the vaccines can help.

Each vaccine was prepared from bits of each person's own cancer, and then injected under the skin of that same person. The aim was to increase natural resistance to far-advanced cancer.

It could work by forming antibodies against the cancer, and by increasing the number of healthy defensive cells that resist the spread of cancer. X-rays to kill cancer cells are given soon afterward.

The new experimental work was described to the third National Cancer Conference by Dr. John B. Graham, a physician, and his wife Ruth, a cytologist or expert on cells. Both are from the Vincent Memorial Hospital in Boston.

Mrs. Graham has found an apparent reason for the tragic difference often noted in how well women respond to X-ray treatments of cancer of the cervix, the neck of the womb.

She finds the results best if the women, before treatment, already have high amounts of one or both of two types of healthy cells, found near the cancerous cells.

If they have high amounts of both, 85 per cent of women are still living five years after X-ray treatment. If they have low amounts, only 19 per cent survive.

The Grahams are seeking ways of artificially increasing the number of these healthy, useful cells.

There is evidence so far that one patient developed specific antibodies against her own cancer, the Grahams said. It is too early to say whether they had an improvement in the response of healthy cells, and a bigger killing effect upon the cancer cells from X-ray.

In Washington, the Senate added $58 million yesterday to the $126½ million President Eisenhower had asked for continued research on cancer, heart disease, mental illness, arthritis and other diseases.

It did so in passing by voice vote a $2,372,523,281 money bill to finance the Welfare and Labor departments in the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, which had voted $9 million more than Eisenhower asked for research by the National Institutes of Health. There are other differences between the two versions which also must be resolved.

President Sees Need For Check On Yugoslavia

Chief Says Nation Must Continue To Wage Fight For Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today it would be tragic if Congress doesn't support his foreign aid program. But he believes there should be a re-study of aid for Yugoslavia.

Eisenhower opened his news conference with a lengthy discussion of the foreign aid question, linking it to the fact that this is the 12th anniversary of D-Day, the beginning of the Normandy invasion in World War II.

With emphasis, Eisenhower said that now, as long as we aren't shooting, we aren't spending a tenth as much money as if we were.

We must continue to wage the peace, he said. We must support such programs as the Mutual Security Act and we must have a continuing study of the program to keep it on the right track.

Eisenhower spoke against the background of a $1,109,000,000 cut by the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill.

SOME LEGISLATORS, moreover, have been talking of stopping aid to Yugoslavia in view of the apparent reconciliation between Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and the Russians.

Tito is visiting in Russia. As to that development, Eisenhower told a questioner he doesn't consider what he called the Tito incident entirely a loss.

Eisenhower asked why Tito had been received in Moscow with such elaborate acclaim and then answered his own question:

It was because of the success Tito had in defying the Soviet re-

No Tax Cut Due This Year

House Group Cool
To Suggested Slash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Barring a marked business downturn, House tax writers today foresaw little prospect of voting a tax cut in the remaining days of this session.

Next year, they indicated, a general review of individual and business taxes may be in order.

Key members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee gave a cool reception to qualified recommendations made yesterday by the Committee for Economic Development for a tax cut of $2 billion or more effective next Jan. 1.

The CED, which describes itself as a nonprofit economic research organization, proposed general income tax relief, provided there is a substantial Treasury surplus for the coming fiscal year, starting July 1.

Rep. Boggs (D-La.), another committee member, said he did "not see any tax action this year." Next year "is the way I see it," he declared.

Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.), also a committee member, said "it is premature to talk about tax reduction at this stage of the game" and "not sound policy to talk now about a cut in January."

"ANY GENERAL reduction ought to be predicated only on a related reduction in expenditures, or on a downturn in business that would justify a reduction in taxes."

Rep. Boggs (D-La.), another committee member, said he did "not see any tax action this year." Next year "is the way I see it," he declared.

Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.), also a committee member, said "it is premature to talk about tax reduction at this stage of the game" and "not sound policy to talk now about a cut in January."

Ohio GOP Chieftain
Says Negro Vote To Go Republican

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio GOP Chairman Ray Bliss said today Ohio Negroes are "swinging back" to the Republicans because of the Eisenhower civil rights record.

Speaking at a news conference before calling on Vice President Nixon, Bliss asserted:

"It seems to me we have in Ohio a chance of at least 10 per cent shift of that Negro vote. Assuming a potential of 300,000 colored votes, that's 60,000 votes plus."

He noted Sen. Bender (R-Ohio) won by just a few thousand votes in 1954 and said a shift of the sort he anticipates could determine the outcome of statewide races.

Bliss called on Nixon to ask him to stump Ohio for Republican candidates and to discuss other Ohio political matters.

Cardinal Reported
Arrested Again

ROME (AP)—The official organ of Italian Catholic Action reported today that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, again has been jailed by Hungarian Communists.

The newspaper, Il Quotidiano, expressed belief he was jailed because he had refused to sign a statement "recognizing progress made in recent years between the Hungarian state and the Roman Catholic Church."

A Hungarian court convicted Cardinal Mindszenty of treason in 1949 and sentenced him to life imprisonment. Last July 16 the Hungarian government announced he had been released.

Intercontinental Missile Defense Weapon Seen Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Gen. Earle C. Partridge says American scientists have worked out, in principle, a weapon to defend this country against a still-unperfected Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

But, he added, this counter-weapon "has not yet been translated into any hardware and until we can figure out a way to make the thing work operational, I do not rest very easy."

Partridge is chief of both the Continental Defense Command and the Air Defense Command. He discussed the potential Russian air threat to the United States during secret testimony April 30 and May 1 before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee studying relative U. S.-Soviet air strength.

The general's testimony was made public by the subcommittee last night, but in a "heavily censored" form.

Partridge said both American and Russian scientists are striving to develop an accurate missile capable of speeding a hydrogen warhead thousands of miles in a matter of minutes.

THE GENERAL did not give a

Supreme Court Judges Studying Disbarment Case

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Supreme Court judges today studied oral arguments on the request by a committee of lawyers for disbarment of J. Harvey Crow, Cleveland attorney formerly of Urbana.

The committee appealed from appellate court reversal of Crow's disbarment on May 14, 1955, by Champaign County common pleas court. The appellate court returned the case to the trial court for findings of fact and conclusions of law and re-entry of such judgment as the case might require.

Crow was disbarred for alleged unprofessional conduct. His counsel contended that notice of appeal was not filed within the legal time limit.

Counsel asked dismissal of the committee's request to review the appellate court decision.

Stanley Denlinger of Akron made the oral arguments in yesterday's hearing for Crow. Attorney Reed Winegardner of Washington, D. C., also counsel for Crow, was present in the courtroom. D. H. Jackman of London presented arguments for the committee.

Grad, 86, Kinda Sad To Leave The Coeds

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Like all graduating seniors, John Burgoyne Ely is just a bit sad his college days are about over.

Ely is 86.

"I'll miss those coeds, 8 o'clock classes and coffee breaks," Ely said yesterday. "They kept me from feeling my age."

Six of Ely's seven children will be on hand when he gets his diploma at UCLA Saturday. Four grandchildren will be there too.

Ely's degree is a bachelor of arts in music. During four years of college his grades were all A's and B's.

Marines See Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marine officers attribute a sharp April drop in enlistments chiefly to raised Corps standards but acknowledge that another factor may be the drownings of six recruits on a forced night march.

Half Of Brain Removed; Girl No 'Brat' Now

CHICAGO (AP)—An operation has transformed a little girl from a "brat" to a cheerful child.

Doctors, in making the switch, removed half her brain.

Surgeons at Wesley Memorial Hospital said the unnamed 6-year-old blonde youngster had sleeping sickness at the age of 1. Her left side was affected by partial paralysis.

She became a "brat," mistreated others, shouted at her mother and destroyed toys. She suffered 10 to 12 convulsions each day. She was taken out of school because of her ugly behavior and taken to Wesley Hospital.

Medical investigators decided that half her brain was responsible for her behavior. Tests showed the right half of the brain and skull had failed to grow.

So, in a 4-hour, 35-minute operation May 14, the right half of the brain was removed. Generally, the right half of the brain controls the left side of the body.

Now, the doctors reported, the healthy side of the brain is taking over additional functions, and the child's senses are as acute as before the operation.

Partial paralysis still is apparent, they said, but improvement is expected with the passage of time. She has no more convulsions, they added, but does have a new personality, is cooperative, cheerful and of normal intelligence.

Ike Says U.S. Plans Invite To Russian

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says that Gen. Nathan F. Twining's acceptance of an invitation to visit the Soviet Union air show in Moscow June 24 means the United States will reciprocate by inviting Twining's Russian opposite number to this country.

Twining is Air Force chief of staff.

The President said further that if Russia should invite Secretary of Defense Wilson to the Soviet Union, then the U. S. certainly would invite Soviet Defense Minister George Zhukov to this country.

12 Years Ago 'It Was D-Day'

Omaha Beach Seeing Pilgrimages Today

OMAHA BEACH, France (AP)—Even to the French peasants who live nearby, this beach where the Allies landed 12 years ago today is known as Omaha.

Their pronunciation may be different but they have learned the name from serious-faced visitors who have come in search of graves and from old soldiers seeking spots burns into their memory of D-Day.

Signs now direct visitors to points of interest along the landing areas. The signs are in French but two invasion names have stuck, Omaha and Utah, the Normandy beaches where the might of the Allies struck to drive back the forces of Nazi Germany.

Today's 12th anniversary of D-Day found residents and visitors again making the annual pilgrimage to the channel-washed strip of brown sand.

The sad gentle sound of taps played by military buglers was only the faintest echo of the fury of that day, when the West mustered a mighty air and sea armada to launch the invasion of Normandy.

TODAY'S military observances were largely confined to the cemeteries—French, British and Canadian—scattered along the coast. The schedule called for the usual speeches, rifle salutes and sounding of taps before the visitors moved quietly through the ordered rows of graves or walked reflectively along the beaches.

Omaha shows almost no trace of the invasion. A rusted landing ship can be seen far down the beach. At low tide the broken skeletons of the harbor made of sunken ships poke through the channel waters. That's about all.

Better Dog Relations For Postmen Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Postoffice Department had expert advice today on how to improve relations between letter carriers and the dogs they meet on their rounds.

A group of authorities on dogs met here yesterday at the call of Postmaster General Summerfield. They agreed unanimously to get behind a program of education for dog owners and mailmen, designed to reduce dog attacks on carriers.

The experts expressed the view that neither chemical repellents on carrier uniforms, nor distribution of dog candy by mailmen, with which the department is experimenting, would provide any lasting solution.

Summerfield, who also is trying out padded pants on some carriers, told the gathering that if the campaign can develop better relationships between dogs and mailmen, hundreds of businesses employing delivery services will benefit.

"There is little room for levity in humor in dog-bite injuries," he said.

In 1955, 5,880 dog bite cases were reported by postmen.

Thug Gets $10,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—A gunman, his features disguised by a phony beard and mustache, robbed the North American Bank of $10,000 today.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S appointment of Charles Walters, above, as the new, permanent postmaster at Circleville was confirmed late Tuesday by the U. S. Senate. Walters, who has been serving in an acting capacity, said he considers the position "a high honor for which I will always be grateful." He added: "With the great crew we have to work with at the postoffice, we plan to carry on with our aim to give the district top efficiency postal service."

Ohio Supreme Court Rules Pinballs Gambling Devices

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today held that pinball machines which reward players with free games are gambling devices, banned by law.

The 6-0 decision came in a test case brought by Westerhaus, Inc., Cincinnati, a pinball distributor.

The decision may mean the end of the pinball business in Ohio because no reward of any kind, not even free plays, may be offered to prospective players.

Because the decision is based on state law rather than on local ordinances, it will affect all pinball machines in Ohio, attorneys said. A number of Ohio cities have had licensing ordinances similar to Cincinnati's.

The firm sought a declaratory judgment on whether the machines were gambling devices under a Cincinnati ordinance licensing pinball machines. The company also asked an injunction against seizure of some 200 machines by the city.

The Supreme Court said: "WHERE IT IS necessary to put a nickel into a pinball machine in order to operate it, and where the operation of such machine may enable the operator to replay the machine merely by pushing a button and without a further payment for such replay if the operator obtains a sufficient score, such operation constitutes gambling devices."

Hamilton County common pleas court granted the requested injunction, but an appellate court reversed. Appellate judges said free games awarded for high scores made the machines gambling devices and said that violated the state's constitutional ban against lotteries.

Westerhaus contended the machines were legal because their payoff was nothing of legal value.

Judge Kingsley A. Taft wrote the Supreme Court opinion affirming the appellate court's decision.

Concurring were Judges John M. Matthias, William L. Hart, James F. Bell, Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt and C. B. McClintock, judge of the Fifth District Court of Appeals, sitting by assignment.

Supreme Court Judge James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati voluntarily withdrew from the case. Judge Charles B.B. Zimmerman of the high court was silent.

Car Sideswiped On Both Sides By Pair Of Speeders

CASEY, Ill. (AP)—Fred Collins, 45, of West Plains, Mo., told police he was perking along U. S. 40 just west of here yesterday at about 35 miles an hour when two cars came barreling down on him from behind at about 70.

The first sideswiped him on the right. The second scraped him on the left.

The drivers identified themselves as George C. Lee, 27, of Stillwater, Okla., and Mon H. Lo, 24, of West Lafayette, Ind.

The two Chinese, who had never met before, took Collins around to a used car lot and bought him a 1941 model.

Collins said it is a better car than his old one.

The police were satisfied, too. They filed no charges.

Nasser Plans Trip

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The morning newspaper Al Shaab reported today Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser will go to Belgrade in mid-June for talks with Yugoslav President Tito that will "have a resounding echo in the international sphere."

Iranian Elected

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Mohsein Nasr, Iranian minister of labor, is the new president of the International Labor Conference.

Public Hearing Puts It All Up To Lawmakers

'Shopping Center'
Ordinance Passes
Its First Reading

City council last night moved toward its final decision on the shopping center controversy after listening, for nearly two hours, to the sharpest debate on the subject thus far.

The free-for-all argument was staged in council's own public hearing on the plan to rezone 10 acres on the northern side Hargus Creek, a step that would clear the way for the shopping center. The Circleville planning and zoning commission has recommended against the proposed zone change, but the final decision will be up to the lawmaking body.

Last night, the so-called "shopping center" ordinance passed first reading. Councilmen Dudley Carpenter and Lee Cook were absent. For council to pass the measure against the recommendation of the planning body would take six of council's seven votes.

The lawmakers themselves had little to say on the subject during the public hearing. Top spokesmen in favor of the rezoning were Attorney Harry B. Shaefer of Columbus and Attorney George D. Young, former Pickaway County Probate Judge. Leading the opposition was Attorney William Ammer, county prosecutor, who has emphasized he is participating in the dispute only as a private citizen.

MUCH OF what was said has already been touched upon frequently in printed accounts, but Ammer stepped up the vigor of his accusations against supporters of the plan and called upon them to "put all the cards on the table."

In the more heated portions of the public argument, it was alleged that supporters of the rezoning had "tried to make liars" out of members of the city planning and zoning commission. George Ammer, brother of the prosecutor, also joined the debate to denounce Shaefer and Dale Stewart, Columbus agent for the shopping center interests, as "fake fronts."

George Ammer declared Councilman Carpenter has a direct interest in the shopping center plans and consequently should not be permitted to vote when the lawmakers make their decision. He likewise recalled that City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins acted in behalf of the shopping center move that was defeated last year, and that consequently he should not be permitted now to advise council.

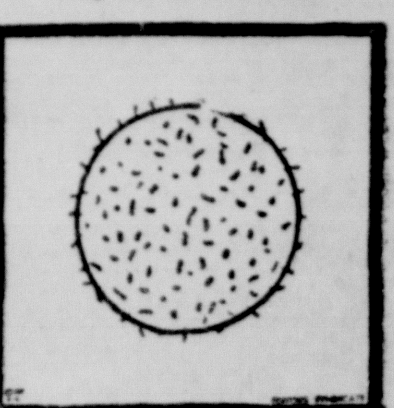

In reaction to other comments by the prosecutor's brother, Councilman George Crites denied that he had any business connection with the Kroger Co.

Under present plans for the shopping center, a large super-market operated by the Kroger

DROODLES

"BUBBLE WITH A STUBBLE"

This bubble is suffering from ten o'clock shadow because being a bubble, it naturally has a bubble brain and doesn't know anything about one of the world's greatest inventions, the razor. Before razors were invented men wore beards. Those that didn't had to scrape their whiskers off with clam shells or rusty axes. Today, however, we have the electric razor which works like a little lawn mower and shaves whiskers off neatly and provides work for thousands of TV Announcers. I have one of the first electric razors made. It was handed down to me by my Uncle Frank and although I have to crank it to get it started and fill it with anti-freeze in the winter time, it works like a charm. I wish it would start working like a shaver.

Scout Troop 52 Returns From Camping Trip

Boy Scout Troop 52, sponsored by the First Methodist Church, returned Tuesday from a weekend camping trip in the Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee. Ten Scouts, with two leaders, made the journey as part of a reward for advancement during the year. Walter Fisher, assistant Scoutmaster for the Troop, and Tom Rhodes were in charge. Fisher said the boys "saw a lot of bears and had a lot of fun, including falling in creeks." The camp site was approximately 40 miles from Knoxville, Tenn. Activity over the weekend included a hike up a mountain. THE GROUP made overnight camping stops in Kentucky both going and coming. Fisher said they encountered some rain "but it cleared up and we had beautiful weather." Scouts who made the trip included: Ricky Morris, Fred Wick, Mike Felky, Dan Moffat, Mike Houghton, Bill Wyatt, Jim Drumm, Steve Yost, Alex Cook and Buddy Cisco.

Anti-Stalin Drive Discussed By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today expressed the opinion that the denunciation of Stalin by Nikita Khrushchev, Russia's Communist party boss, was primarily for home consumption. Eisenhower said it apparently was intended to be an exhortation of a dictator, but actually amounted to an exhortation of dictators. He added that it is clear indication of how the Kremlin leaders regard the individual as opposed to the state.

Adlai Swamps Kefauver In California Poll

Stevenson's Delegate Total Now 259 1/2—Far From 686 1/2 He Needs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson swept to a thunderous California victory today that all but knocked Sen. Estes Kefauver out of the running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Stevenson took California's 48 Democratic convention votes by what approached a landslide margin and forged so far ahead of his rivals that he looked like the man to beat for his party's nomination. He was getting 62 per cent of the vote.

Including yesterday's California, Montana and South Dakota primaries, Stevenson has 239 1/2 delegates and Kefauver 166. Other candidates have 226 total and 370 are uncommitted publicly.

While this left Stevenson substantially short of the 686 1/2 nominating figure, the impetus of his California victory seemed likely to win him support from previously undecided delegates and others still to be chosen.

Despite his California showing, the former Illinois governor apparently failed to match in his own ballot total the count rolled up by an unopposed 70-vote delegate slate backing President Eisenhower for the GOP nomination.

BUT IN THEIR bitterly fought primary, the combined vote Democrats gave Stevenson and Kefauver topped substantially the ballots cast in the unexciting GOP contest. Registered Democrats outnumbered Republicans by 782,000 in the state, which Eisenhower won from Stevenson by 700,000 in 1952. With 15,580 of 24,160 precincts counted, the Democratic contest stood: Stevenson 601,583, Kefauver 364,809.

The Republican count from 13-851 precincts gave Eisenhower 598,589. On this basis Eisenhower was certain to top Stevenson. Conceding defeat early today, Kefauver said he will continue campaigning for the Democratic nomination. He said he will not accept a vice presidential place on the ticket, an offer not likely to come to him if Stevenson wins the top spot.

Kefauver said in a congratulatory telegram to Stevenson he and his supporters will do "everything possible for the election of Democratic candidates in the general election and to bring California back into the Democratic fold in November." The Tennessee senator said he had "no regrets and no alibis" for his defeat.

Stevenson obviously was relieved that primary campaigning ended with California's the final contested election before the August party convention. He said he was "delighted by the results." He added, in what seemed to be a reference to the November election that "this is only the first step in a long campaign."

Council OK Seen On 4-Hour Meters

New Type Would Be 'Experiment' On W. Franklin, Pinckney, Watt

An ordinance that would put "experimental" parking meters on both sides of W. Franklin, Pinckney and Watt streets was given first reading last night in city council meeting.

In the case of W. Franklin and Pinckney, the meters would be placed for the full block stretch. On Watt street, they would be placed from N. Court to Pickaway streets.

Most of the lawmakers have indicated they favor the plan, outlined as a suggestion at a previous session by a parking meter firm representative. But one member of the lawmaking body—Boyd Horn—wants to know if anyone has asked residents along the streets how they feel about the idea.

The fourth ward councilman asked Deputy Director Miller Fissell: "Did you take a survey of the residents along the streets?"

FISSELL replied that he had not done so, and did not feel it was his responsibility to conduct such a survey. He also pointed out that the affected property owners will be notified of the plan through The Herald, and that they can enter protests if they desire.

Councilman Harold Clifton seemed to reflect the general feeling of council when he described the move as a "wonderful thing." The meters would be an important test here in at least two respects. They would allow four hours parking time for a dime, and they would also be designed in a way that one motorist will not be able to use the time that a previous driver had "left over."

The pending ordinance—up for second reading when council meets June 19—specifies in part as follows:

"The meters to be installed... shall not have therein any means of informing prospective users of the parking space just what interval of time has elapsed since the last user of the metered parking space deposited a coin in the meter.

"The coins (dimes) deposited in the meters... shall be manually transferred from the place of deposit by the users of the parking space to the receptacle within the parking meters... by the parking meter attendant who shall have access to the place of deposit through the use of a key...."

"VIOLATIONS... on the streets mentioned herein shall be determined through the manual inspection every four hours...."

Fissell, who made it clear he did not originate the plan, said the lawmakers decided to add Watt St. to the experiment after the first idea included only W. Franklin and Pinckney.

City officials, anxious to increase meter revenue and also to ease the local parking problems, have frequently complained that many motorists enjoy free all-day parking along Watt St. According to the complaints, many of these motorists park their cars while they ride, either by bus or with friends, to Columbus to shop or work.

The decision to experiment with the four-hour meters was an outgrowth of discussions on the type of meters to be installed at the Chamber of Commerce. Early mention of the idea referred to it as an experiment, to note the reaction of the public and to see what it would mean to the parking meter collections.

Woman Motorist Fined And Jailed

Ada Knece Moore, 33, of Circleville, was fined and jailed by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today after being found guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

She was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bob Hoover after her car struck the Scioto River Bridge on the western edge of Circleville. She was shaken up but not injured.

Judge Lamb fined her $150 and costs, sentenced her to five consecutive days in jail and ordered her driving rights suspended for one year.

President Sees Need For Check On Yugoslavia

time. To get him back the Russians had to make great concessions.

Eisenhower said this would cause the Russians to think seriously about relations with other satellites.

Still, Eisenhower said, there must be another look at American aid to Yugoslavia in the light of what serves our best interests.

The President drew away from taking sides in primary contests between Republicans, Eisenhower said he believes it is not the place of the President of the United States to intervene in primaries.

Also on the political front, Eisenhower declined to shed any light on whether he may campaign more vigorously this fall than he indicated in February. He said at that time he would do no barnstorming or whistle stop speaking, and would confine his efforts to mass communication approaches—that is, through newspapers, television and radio.

A REPORTER told Eisenhower that last week he had remarked at a Citizens for Eisenhower rally that he would "campaign" as energetically and as enthusiastically as he could.

Eisenhower interrupted to deny that he had ever used the word "campaign." He said he had talked rather of carrying on his responsibilities cheerfully and energetically.

As for whether he may make more than the half dozen television speeches, which the Republican National Committee has indicated are on the schedule, the President said he has not discussed the matter with anyone.

California Dems Showing Strength

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Democrats may capture control of the California State Senate for the first time in history.

Democrats won 15 and Republicans 14 of 40 seats in yesterday's primary. Under California law, it's possible to win election in a primary by capturing both major party nominations.

Democrats had a good chance of running the margin up to 17-14 in the primary. This would mean they could gain control by capturing only four of nine contests in November.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche was unopposed for the Democratic nomination. He meets U. S. Sen. George H. Bender in November. But the Lausche surplus of $870.35 won't go far against the $500,000 fund being collected for Bender.

Big 3 Steel Firms Study Union Demand

NEW YORK (AP)—"Big Three" steel wage negotiations that could affect the nation's economy open here today.

Representatives of the United States, Bethlehem and Republic steel corporations meet in the Hotel Roosevelt to discuss the 22-point package asked by the United Steelworkers of America.

The union is aiming for a "substantial" but unspecified wage increase, 52-week layoff pay, premium pay for weekend work, a company-paid insurance program and a full union shop.

Any agreement reached will set a pattern for the remainder of the steel industry and serve as a bellwether for negotiation in other industries.

An agreement resulting in a price agreement in the basic metal could affect prices of a wide range of commodities.

A stalemate in negotiations could result in an economy-shaking strike of 650,000 steelworkers.

Steelworkers' contracts expire June 30. The present average in the industry, with incentive pay and overtime, is $2.46 an hour.

This year's wage talks began in Pittsburgh May 31, when the union presented its proposals. The session lasted only three hours.

It ended with a joint announcement that the companies "will spend the next several days in further studying the union's proposals" and that the next meeting would be held in New York.

Railroad Crossing Scene Of Accident

Mrs. Robert Puffinbarger of Williamsport Route 2 was injured slightly when she was thrown against the dashboard and windshield of a car in which she was a passenger.

The accident, which took place on Route 138 at a railroad crossing southwest of Route 22 Monday, was not reported to the sheriff's office until Tuesday.

Mrs. Puffinbarger's husband, driver of the car, said he was approaching the crossing when he suddenly heard a train whistle. He applied his brakes and the sudden jolt threw Mrs. Puffinbarger forward, the driver's report stated.

Mrs. Puffinbarger suffered a badly bruised forehead and an abrasion over her eye.

$25,000 Bond Issue Set For 6 Street Jobs

City Plans Reserve Sanitary Sewer Line Under Bypass

Beginning and ending a wordy, four-hour session with moments of unofficial gaiety, city council Tuesday night listened to the "shopping center argument" for two hours and then spent the remaining two on a variety of other business.

Councilmen Dudley Carpenter and Lee Cook were absent. Councilman Richard Penn presided. Council President Ben Gordon had to yield the gavel for the night's work because he is serving as acting mayor.

Mayor Bob Hedges was still out of the city, and Gordon said the law prohibits an official from holding two elective offices, even for a few hours, at the same time. Gordon was present, however, for all of the long talk.

Hints of a lengthy evening were obvious when City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins, with a wide grin and flourish, dropped a handful of new legislation in front of Council Clerk Fred Nicholas to start the meeting. Nicholas, for many years a strong advocate of shorter council meetings, glared at the solicitor in such an unwelcome manner that it brought chuckles from the other lawmakers and spectators.

FIRST official business was in the form of a letter from the Container Corporation to Third Ward Councilman George Crites, complaining about the condition of the streets in the vicinity of the firm's plant.

Asked to comment, City Service Director Dewey Speakman said the city has "done a lot of work down there" (near the plant) and that heavy use by Container trucks makes it virtually impossible to keep that section of Canal St. in good condition. As for the other streets in that vicinity, Speakman expressed belief their condition compares favorably with that of other city streets.

Joe Burns of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce then introduced Dennis E. Murphy, vice-president of the Ohio Company, an investment house with offices in Columbus. Murphy explained the various fine points to be considered in any bond issue to finance off-street parking lots here.

His appearance was arranged by the Chamber after council extended the invitation. In the course of his talk on the various financing steps which could be undertaken, Murphy said Circleville has one of the highest credit ratings of all Ohio cities.

The meeting then swung into a public hearing on the so-called "shopping center ordinance," actually a measure that would rezone 10 acres north of Hargus Creek.

(See page one story)

After both sides had their last opportunity for free-for-all arguments on the pending measure, the lawmakers turned to new legislation. The first ordinance, calling for experimental 4-hour parking meters on W. Franklin and

Pinckney streets, was held to first reading.

(See separate story)

THEN, although short-handed with two absentees among the regular councilmen, the lawmakers adopted a resolution that launches a $25,000 program of street construction and repair. Council contemplates issuing bonds in that amount for "grading, surfacing, resurfacing, curbing, guttering, widening and improving" the following:

Sunset Drive, Lewis Road, Georgia Road, Lone Pine Road, Nicholas Drive and S. Pickaway St.

All five members present voted for the measure.

Council next turned to a proposal to build a reserve sewer line alongside the city's present sanitary sewer line at the point where the latter will be under the Route 23 bypass. It was pointed out that the reserve line can be built now—during construction of the bypass itself—for only a fraction of what it would cost after the new highway is finished.

It was decided to have legislation drawn and submitted to council next session for this purpose.

Last of the new measures placed before council Tuesday night turned out to be a catch-all collection of fund transfers. Since it was drawn as an ordinance and could not be passed on first reading with only five councilmen present, the measure was held to first reading. It would:

APPROPRIATE $100 to buy stationery and supplies for the office of the service director.

Appropriate $50 to purchase supplies for the clerk of council.

Appropriate $100 as the 1956 salary for Civil Defense Director Bernard Tait.

Appropriate $3,000 to pay the salaries of special policemen employed by the safety department.

After action on the legislation was completed for the time being, Councilman Harold Clifton suggested that Tait be paid a larger amount for his Civil Defense activities. He said:

"I think he deserves more money. He's doing a good job, and he has a good bit of office work to do too."

Crites agreed:

"I think he's done a couple hundred dollars worth of work. He's conscientious."

CLIFTON AND Crites were in favor of raising the figure for Tait's salary on the pending measure, at least to $200, but Penn said:

"Let's wait until we're ready to pass it." And the others yielded to this suggestion.

The lawmakers then heard second reading of the ordinance that would establish zoning in the city's new North Annex. The ordinance appears to have little opposition in the way of final passage at the next meeting.

The next ordinance, introduced at the request of Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist, would appropriate money to pay for additional services rendered by Burgess and Niple, Columbus firm of engineering consultants. The firm has been asked for advisory aid and other services that were not covered by the city's original contract, which called for a survey of the city-wide sewer system.

Leist explained that the firm's help is essential in studying the most economical methods of handling industrial waste from local plants.

As adjournment neared, the lawmakers were reminded that they had yet to hear second reading of a key measure on the subject of the off-street parking lots. The ordinance would, in effect, have the city accept the plans already drawn and arranged by an engineer hired by the Chamber of Commerce.

Passage of the measure would be recognized as council's approval of the preliminary work done by the Chamber, and of the basic idea of the parking lots as advocated by that organization.

When the copy of this legislation could not be located, The Herald's press copy was turned over to the lawmaking body. The ordinance will be up for final reading next meeting.

During the futile search for the missing ordinance, Council Clerk Nicholas again indicated his disapproval of the lengthy council session.

"Fred's holding up better than usual," quipped Crites, as the clock moved past 11:30 p. m.

The lawmakers next agreed to hold a council committee meeting next Tuesday night to consider the long-studied plans to give Circleville a new garbage disposal setup. Construction of the bypass and Scioto River bridge has forced the city to look elsewhere for another dumping ground, and has also revived talk of a more modern system of garbage collections.

Ervin Leist then presented to council, in the name of his department, a large blackboard, which had already been placed at one side of council chambers. He pointed out that it will frequently come in handy to illustrate municipal problems.

HE ALSO handed over erasers and chalk, and the lawmakers—in mock formality—agreed that Councilman Charles Kirkpatrick should be responsible for those materials. In response to this bit of hilarity, Kirkpatrick arose and bowed his acceptance to the few remaining in the room.

When adjournment came, members of council were discussing the growing problems caused by storm water in the Northend. The city has warned property owners that storm water can no longer be turned into sanitary sewer lines.

And that is where an awful lot of it has been—and still is—going. Without adequate storm sewers, the problem remains one of the

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians have settled a question which has puzzled Westerners ever since the mid-1930s when Stalin purged thousands of his Communist party comrades.

An astonishing parade of Old Bolsheviks confessed in open court crimes against the state, knowing it meant they were not only signing their own death sentences but giving the whole thing an air of justice.

What made it amazing was that these old-time revolutionists were picturing themselves as betrayers of the Revolution to which they had devoted their lives. Had they really done it? Were they guilty at all?

Had they perhaps been induced through some strange Communist reasoning, into confessing what they had never done even though it doomed them? Had they been hypnotized or drugged? Or what had happened?

Westerners wondered and had no way of knowing. Novelist Arthur Koestler wrote a book, "Darkness at Noon," which gave an explanation that sounded plausible to many people for whom the Communist mentality was strange anyway.

The Old Bolshevik in his story, subjected to endless questioning and suggestion by his inquisitors in the dungeons of Moscow, confessed even though he was innocent. Knowing his own life was ended, he thought it best to confess since the party wanted it and he wanted to do what was good for the party.

This kind of interpretation of what happened in the purges put the whole business on a kind of intellectual plane. It was unacceptable to a lot of realistic people who looked on Koestler as a romantic.

It was hard to believe these Old Bolsheviks hadn't been broken by simple police brutality. Then when the Korean War revealed the Red Chinese brainwashing techniques it seemed possible that was what happened in the purges.

But Communist party boss Khrushchev—in a speech to the party Congress last February—told what did happen to "many thousands of Communists" when Stalin had them arrested in the 1930s.

In that speech—a version of which was obtained by the U.S. State Department and made public this week—Khrushchev said they were beaten and tortured in the "most cruel and barbaric and inhuman way" into confessing.

He said "innocent" Communists broke under the police treatment and charged themselves at the order of their torturers, with "all kinds of grave and unlikely crimes."

Khrushchev gave an example: 98 of the 139 Communists elected to the Central Committee—the party's controlling body—were arrested and shot.

Worse still, Khrushchev said that in beating a confession out of one man, they forced him falsely to accuse others. Then the police grabbed those others, beat confessions out of them, forced them to implicate still others. It was an endless bloody chain.

Khrushchev said Stalin gave in-

Ohio Methodists Increase 4,955 In Last Year, Report

LAKEESIDE, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Methodist Conference showed an increase of 4,955 members and nearly one million dollars in church contributions last year.

The Rev. David Weaver, pastor of Toledo's Zion Church, reported to the annual conference meeting Tuesday that membership had risen to 313,493 and that Sunday school attendance had gained 3,586 to a total of 523,459.

Contributions for all purposes totaled $13,276,346. Dr. Lester L. Roush of Columbus, conference treasurer, reported. Major expense items were $3,441,613 for building and improvements; $2,845,516 for current expenses; $2,356,399 for pastors' salaries; $488,257 for World Service; and $424,767 for Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Cons Getting Bibles

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Gov. Frank Clement will present autographed Bibles, purchased with state funds, to the 1,500 inmates at the state prison today.

Instructions on how the arrested men should be treated. The instructions he gave, Khrushchev said, usually were: Beat, beat, and, once again, beat.

Khrushchev blew all the Western romantics' high-sound theories about the Moscow purges out of the window. Stalin's police didn't waste any time on intellectuality when clubs were more persuasive.

Better Grade Of Metal Is Being Sought

Hard At Work Trying

By SAM DAWSON

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Improving the breed — usually associated with Churchill Downs or Belmont — today is the goal of thousands of scientists, engineers, technicians, and pilot plant workmen in the nation. The breed they're out to improve isn't horses but metals.

They are trying to meet the ever growing industrial and military demands for better metals to do precise and often seemingly impossible tasks. Business in general, and even the stock market, watches their result.

That's because improving the breed of metals not only can bring success in the defense armament race but also, metallurgists

The University of South Carolina is the oldest educational institution in the United States entirely supported by state funds.

Beavers never touch fish, although they are aquatic in habits and spend much time in the water.

here say, can make the difference between profit and loss for railroads, airlines, trucking. They say that in improved metals lies the future of automation in manufacturing, building construction, auto design, mining and even man-made satellites.

U.S. Steel has just opened a research center at nearby Monroeville, Pa., dedicated to improving the breed of metals. Two thirds of the work there is aimed at improving processes of handling metal and one third at seeking new products or applications.

Allegheny-Ludlum Steel's research scientists here are working on many problems, including new alloys to enable the Air Force to pierce the heat barrier (the speed at which many metals now used would melt). There already exists a small pilot plane that can fly that fast without melting and big ones are the new goal. Allegheny-Ludlum's scientists say they have special heat resistant steels that the auto industry can put into turbo jet engines. The problem they're working on now is to get the cost down so that the auto companies could put them in mass production.

American Brake Shoe, which has a plant here and a research center at Mahwah, N. J., is working on new alloys, new heat techniques.

Among the challenges metallurgists today are being given by industry and defense — and licking or constantly improving upon — brake shoe scientists point out the following:

Tougher metals for crushing —

to get the iron out of one of the hardest rocks in the world, tantalite, and vastly expand the nation's iron resources.

Stronger metals for wearing and moving parts — to keep automatic manufacturing from breaking down and losing production time.

Three purpose metals for highway construction — offering strength, hardness and impact resistance in the same piece, to meet the demands of the nation's multi-billion dollar highway expansion program.

Research directors, here point out other problems of industry to be met. U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin, among others, are working on alloy steels to enable oil drillers to go even deeper into the earth where both pressures and heat become terrific.

Other metallurgists are looking for the right formula that could permit the substitution of cast alloys for welded or assembled parts in jet engines for the airlines.

The petrochemical industry also calls for special alloys to resist

both high temperatures and powerful acids.

Improving the breed of metals is an endless — and expensive — task.

Scouting Movement In County Revamped Due To Increases

Increased activity in Scouting in Pickaway County has brought about a complete revamping of the movement, according to a 1955 report of service made to the county's community fund organization.

Guy Cline, judge of probate court, is the new district chairman, replacing Dr. J. M. Hedges. Ed Ebert is the new commissioner, working with a staff of seven men.

Five new units were established in three communities in the county last year, according to the report, serving 100 newly organized boys. At least seven others are expected to be formed during the year.

Membership in the Boy Scout organization for the county has increased by 92.3 percent since Jan. 1, 1955. Last year, the report states, 467 boys were served by the Scouting program.

SCOUTS, CUBS and Explorers have participated in community and civic events throughout the year. Their activities included: The Fair, Pumpkin Show, Memorial Day observance, Independence Day, collection of toys for needy children, messenger service at football games, etc.

In addition, Scouts have taken part in an active program. This includes: a turkey shoot, held primarily to promote safe gun handling; two district Camporees, the annual camp-outs; a mobilization carried out with the help of the National Guard, etc.

The leadership training committee has trained 60 volunteers and awarded certificates to them. In addition, 53 men and women completed a portion of their basic leadership training. The report emphasized that the Scouting movement in the county with outstanding accomplishments has shown a significant increase.

UP TO PRIVATE INDUSTRY

PRESUMABLY Sen. Albert Gore, of Tennessee, calls for a "crash program" of building atomic power plants.

Gore's contention is that private industry is failing to step in and build huge atomic power plants at a fast enough rate and therefore the U. S. is losing the lead in this field to Russia. He asks that the Atomic Energy Commission back a costly program to build six full-scale nuclear plants.

AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss answers this by saying that private industry is correctly working first to develop economically competitive nuclear power. He said that Gore's program would waste the nation's effort in a "kilowatt race" with Russia and would result in a collection of "obsolescent" plants.

There are three elements to be considered here:

One—It will be far better and more economical for private firms to develop atomic power than the government. There is no "war" concern here to dictate government interference.

Two—Because this country is rich in other power resources, development is bound to be slower than in countries that are not. Why should the government step in and build atomic plants to compete with other power facilities?

Three—Better that the program start slowly and be accompanied by careful research and engineering to avoid "blind alley" methods to be outmoded by later developments. This will assure reaching atomic power that can compete economically with coal and water power when the time comes that it is needed.

JUNE

LESS IS HEARD than formerly of June as the ecstatic month of roses and brides and etc. True, more weddings still occur in June than in any other month, but the number is not as lopsided as it was in a former day. It is still the month of roses, but roses now are available the year around in most localities.

There is much to be said for June at that, although it has slipped somewhat from its former preeminent status. The over-all climate in June isn't bad, not too warm or too cold in most areas. And June ushers in Summer by the calendar, and Summer is the favorite season of many persons.

Perhaps what sets June apart as a dividing line between activities more than anything else is the ending of school and college terms. The boys and girls and the more blase youth from the college campuses are primed to make this the best of all Summers. Come September they will probably contend that it was, and their parents will add, "And how!"

GRADUATES FACE FUTURE

IT HAS BEEN said that "there is nothing quite so useless as a commencement address." Judging from many that are made this may be true.

This is the time of year when thousands of high school and college young people are, as the orators say, "going forth to take part in building a better tomorrow." As a matter of cold fact, they are doing nothing of the sort.

The graduate of today will be about 30 to 35 before he even gets a glimpse of the "mountains"—the accomplishments he can call his own, which make all of life worthwhile.

It is what to do with the 10 to 15 years between then and now a graduate ought to be advised. How to make the next 10 years useful in building experience, attitudes and knowledge of living, so that when the opportunity comes he will be prepared.

Life Is Full Of Mysteries

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—Life is full of mysteries, and it puzzles me—Why so many horse players insist they are ahead of the game when they really aren't.

Why, when people get a lot of money, they worry more about it than when they had little or none.

Why brides who insist on a double ring wedding ceremony don't also give their fiances engagement rings.

These Days

It is impossible even to approximate the cost to this nation of the Prohibition experiment in social or economic terms. But one of the side effects is coming to the surface now and is about to be investigated by a Senate committee.

During Prohibition, the drinking habits of the American people became more general and widespread but no potable alcohol was legitimate except for sacramental or medicinal purposes. Liquor of all sorts, from fine wines to raw alcohol, was imported into the country and sold surreptitiously. The trade fell into the hands of bootleggers who were supplied by racketeers who were, in turn, supplied by theoretically legitimate distillers and vintners in Canada, Scotland, France, etc. Billions of dollars went into this trade.

The dollars had to be deposited in banks because there were too many dollars to keep in shoe boxes under a bed. As long as these dollars could evade being taxed, they could be owned anonymously. But in the United States, the anonymous ownership of cash money is dangerous, so it was found advisable to find ways and means to transport these untaxed dollars abroad, to legitimize them, to establish Swiss, Liechtenstein, Tangier, Monacan, Panamanian and other sorts of corporations to make it possible to reinvest these funds in American industry.

The best type of operation is a Liechtenstein corporation that keeps its money in a Swiss bank.

Prohibition laid the basis for this type of operation. Later came other enormous reservoirs of money. The dope traffic, for instance, has been important in international commerce for more than a century, was at one time wholly legitimate and huge fortunes have been established in it.

When the shipment of opium from India and Persia to China, for many years the principal consumer's market, became illegal by international agreement, the business grew larger, fell into various hands, and developed into the morphium, cocaine and heroin trade. The principal manufacturer is Red China; the leading consumer's market is the United States.

Again the money is big—billions of dollars. It has to find its way, through many hands, from the consumer to the manufacturer. It has to be transported in the form of cash dollars, secretly; it must evade taxation; it must be banked and converted into legitimate money. This is a very complicated traffic and the returns are enormous.

Another source of secret money is the Nazi holdings—Hitler's, Goering's, Goebbels' money. We do not even have estimates of the amounts, where this money was deposited, how it was banked and legitimized. There has been an inkling of Peron's secret money but not enough data to justify an opinion as to amount or where it is invested.

It is, however, becoming increasingly clear that when secret, untaxed money is made legitimate, particularly by the device of an anonymous Swiss bank account, often carried by a number instead of in the name of a person, and doing business under the guise of an anonymous corporation that can be organized in a number of countries, it returns to the United States either to purchase American businesses, to manipulate the market in securities or it operates cartels for retail goods in competition with American firms under advantageous reciprocal treaties. Everything is corrupted by this gimmick money which remains untaxed.

Forgetting old troubles gives one practice in forgetting the new ones constantly coming along.

To keep young, you must associate with the young, says a columnist. What! At 90 miles an hour?

What worries weight gainers is that they cannot be fat and fit their old clothes.

Thomas Hart Benton says he will not paint any more murals, adding "although if someone came along with enough dough I might." Most resolutions follow this pattern.

Is Flying Ruled Out For An Ailing Person?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EVERY one who is under a doctor's care, it may be perfectly all right for you to travel by air.

As a matter of fact, it's estimated that about 1,000,000 of the 34,500,000 passengers flown by regularly scheduled United States airlines in a single 12-month period suffered from some disease or disability.

Common Cold

The types of ailments ranged in severity from the common cold to advanced stages of cancer.

While there are some important exceptions—many of which we have discussed in an earlier column—the great majority of ambulatory patients can fly with no ill effects.

Many patients may find air travel the most convenient, comfortable and least fatiguing way to get about. This may be a determining factor when a patient is going somewhere for rest and convalescence.

Allergic and Sensitive

If you're allergic and sensitive to air-borne allergens, you'll probably find relief while flying because of the absence of excitants.

Patients in status asthmaticus probably had better not fly. However, flying usually is all right for those with mild asthma if they travel between attacks.

But occasionally an asthmatic may have an attack brought on by tension created by any kind of travel.

A word of caution is in order for patients with colostomies who plan to fly. During ascent you will find the colostomy bag tends to fill rapidly. Better be sure to empty it just before departure time.

Body Cavities

As a plane ascends, the gases in closed body cavities expand because of decreased atmospheric pressure.

The expansion of these gases may endanger anyone with appendicitis or deeply eroded peptic ulcers or some other serious weakness of the gastrointestinal wall.

In short, if you are in doubt, ask your doctor whether you can fly. And if he's not sure, or you can't locate him, check with the medical director of the airline you plan to use. He'll give you expert guidance.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J. D.: What foods should one avoid with hardening of the arteries?

Answer: There is no one definite food which should be avoided.

However, it is believed by some authorities that the restriction of certain foods high in cholesterol or fat is of aid in preventing the progress of hardening of the arteries.

CHAPTER 40
VAL SAW Bruce only for brief moments in the days that followed. There were long periods when she was able to put him completely out of her mind. In the afternoons, she would catch the bus down to Montego Bay, swim in the tepid blue waters of Doctor's Cave, then lie on a grass mat in the hot sun. Lying in the sun soothed her nerves and allowed her to think things out in a clear, almost detached way.

One morning, having the following night off duty, Val caught the plane to Kingston, attended to some business and caught the same plane back after sundown.

When the native boy brought her breakfast the next morning there was a large air-mail envelope on the tray. She slit it open with eager fingers, for by the writing and the postmark she knew it was from Dirk. There was an enclosure and she saw with surprise that it was an unopened letter addressed to Dr. Bruce Harridan at Guy's hospital, London. The handwriting was feminine and the envelope was crumpled.

She straightened herself against the pillows and began to read Dirk's letter.

"My darling," it began. "I know I won't hear from you until I write you first. I told you I loved you and you know, of course, I want to marry you. Things are smoothing down here. As you know, Aunt May's relatives have dropped the suit, but I've no intention of being completely unfaithful about the money and just handing it back to those relatives who didn't care a jot for her. I've talked with Cousin Timothy and it's been agreed I'm to use some of the capital to modernize Stormhurst Manor. Since it's too big to live in comfortably, we are going to turn the old place over to a children's convalescent charity and they'll provide what money I'm unable to out of Aunt May's estate for its upkeep."

"They were looking for just such a place and they jumped at it."

Members Of Westminster Bible Class Hold Picnic

Wolford Home Scene Of Event

The Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian Church held its annual picnic Tuesday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford of near Williamsport.

Thirty-two members and the following guests attended the picnic: Miss Betty McCoy, the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell, Mrs. Lester Wolford, Mrs. Boggs, Mrs. Lawrence Wolford, Mrs. Paul Moore and Mrs. Marion Goode.

Dinner was served from a buffet table and members and guests were seated at small tables throughout the house.

Following the dinner Mrs. C. E. Davis conducted a business session. Plans were made to hold a picnic with Mrs. Loring Evans at the Lancaster Camp in July.

The remainder of the day was spent in visiting and a tour of Mrs. Wolford's garden, where she had a variety of garden flowers and shrubs. Pictures were also taken of the group.

Posture Noted In Summer Frocks And Bathing Suits

Summer is the season when a woman suddenly becomes aware of her shoulders and back!

All year long, they have been hidden under dresses. With bathing suits and bare-topped summer frocks, they are out in the open and do not always measure up.

Posture affects them. If you have been slumping over, shoulders may be rounded and back may be developing an ugly hump. Clothes camouflage both these defects to some degree, but in a bathing suit they stand out. Better take steps if your posture is this poor. Concentrate on standing tall and straight.

Sure, it takes effort. Certainly, it seems more comfortable to slump. But in the long run, it is not. Poor posture is not pretty and can cause many aches.

Next thing to consider is skin. Have you been forgetting that your back and shoulders need cleansing, too? If so, they may have developed blemishes.

Get out that bath brush nightly. Lather it with soap and scrub away skin troubles. After a soaping, rinse thoroughly under the shower. It is also a wise idea to apply some astringent to close pores.

Back skin tends to be oily, but those rare few who have dry skin in this area should apply a soothing skin lotion that will lubricate and smooth the skin.

Local BPW Club Members Attend 36th Convention

"Today's Leadership Doorways" was the theme of the 36th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, held in Toledo.

The convention was opened with Helen Reisinger, president, presiding. Reports were given by state officers, committee chairmen and the district directors, at which time Miss Mary Kennedy of Circleville, who is district director of District No. 10, presented her report.

A reception followed the business session with the Toledo BPW Club acting as hostess.

The first session's feature was the annual banquet, when state board members were presented with corsages of red carnations in honor of Mrs. Frank Lausche, who was at the speakers table.

Speaker for the evening was Frances P. Bolton, member of Congress, 22nd Ohio District. The title of her subject was, "We Women."

During the "Awards Breakfast," held the second day of the session, Chillicothe and Greenfield of the local district were presented awards for membership.

Following the breakfast, a closing business session was held with the installation of new officers. The installation services were conducted by Miss Jeannette Williams of Lebanon, past state president, for the following:

Mrs. Dorothy Fleethner of Findlay, president; Miss Lenora Mills of Toledo, first vice-president; Miss Julia Labajetta of Kent, second vice-president; Mrs. Chole Maloney of Jackson, third vice-president; Miss Vera Barber of Eaton, auditor; Miss Noam Hildebrand of Maumslburg, recording secretary; Mrs. Edith Strommer of Bellevue, treasurer and Miss Kennedy of Circleville, as one of the District Directors installed.

Five delegates and five alternates were also elected to attend the Biennial National Convention, to be held from July 1-6 in Miami Beach, Fla. Miss Kennedy of the local club was elected an alternate for the state of Ohio.

Miss Elma Rains of the Circleville club acted as one of the tellers through the entire convention session, which had an attendance of 1042 registered.

Yvonne Gibson Noted At College

Miss Yvonne Gibson, a 1955 graduate of Jackson Township School, is completing her freshman year at the College-Conservatory of Music of Cincinnati and was granted an enlargement in her scholarship at the Conservatory.

Miss Gibson has lately appeared in a recital in the Concert Hall of the College and she has pledged Sigma Alpha Iota, which is a professional music fraternity.

Miss Gibson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gibson of Circleville Route 2 and a former piano student of Mrs. Leon Van Vleet of Circleville.

Beautiful Gowns Designed For Bride's Special Date

Girls who are looking forward to a romantic date with the preacher this June will be thrilled with the latest styled bridal gowns. The gowns are designed to suit any taste ranging from the traditional to the modern short wedding dress.

For the girl, who wants a short gown, the above picture shows an embroidered Swiss organdy, with pretty scalloping at neckline and hem. The tiny sleeves are daintily shirred and the wide neckline is filled with nylon tulle.

One of the floor-length gowns is nylon chiffon over taffeta, with the bodice completely worked in tiny pin tucks. Valenciennes lace edge the short sleeves, the sweetheart neckline and wide midriff.

The matching headpiece is a little Dutch cap of nylon chiffon trimmed with lace and a double-fulness finger-tip veil of silk illusion.

Another long dress is of pure silk and has a bodice trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace motifs and seed pearls. In back, the skirt is very full and shirred, so that it goes gracefully into a regulation length train.

The headpiece is a little crown of Alencon lace and pleated tulle and has a double-fulness finger-tip veil of silk illusion.

Holbrook-Lindsey To Wed June 17

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Holbrook of Circleville Route 3 are announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Freda, to Mr. Carl M. Lindsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Lindsey of Circleville Route 3.

The open church wedding will be an event of 2:30 p. m. June 17 in the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

Stage Pond Group Holds Meet With Judd Dresbachs

Stage Pond Council met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judd Dresbach. Mr. Rennie Sowers and Joyce Hite were guests.

Mr. Sowers talked on the subject of county school consolidation, presenting it from the angles of parents, board members and public trends of thought. He also talked on rural zoning.

Mrs. A. J. Dunkel led the discussion, "How shall we pay for better roads?"

Mrs. Gail Hanover reported on an article from a highway magazine, emphasizing points brought out in the study of the evening's subject. Mr. Hanover presented a statistical study of road mileage in Ohio.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostess.

Ohio GOPsters Worried About Voters' Apathy

Republican Leaders Map Plans To Stir Up Big November Turnout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican strategists are whipping up a drive to overcome voter apathy displayed in Ohio's primary election.

Ballot marking last month fell about a quarter of a million below official estimates. But the Republican showing was worse than expected while Democrats did better than they had hoped.

GOP State Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Akron said the returns pointed to changes in Ohio's nominally Republican political complexion and the need for a vigorous fall campaign.

"My one concern," he said, "is that the Republicans are too complacent about the November election."

He indicated that candidates shouldn't count on President Eisenhower's popularity and Ohio's reputation as a Republican state to pull them through.

"This isn't that kind of a state any more," Bliss asserted. "The old straight tickets are out. The office-type ballot requires a sales campaign for every candidate."

Office-type ballots group candidates of both parties under the office they seek. They were designed to end straight ticket voting with a single "X" under party emblems on old style ballots. Voters now must mark each candidate for whom they want their vote to count.

Bliss accepted that Republicans have the kind of ticket that will win this year.

"To win in Ohio," he explained, "you have to have qualified candidates and adequate financing, plus a vigorous campaign."

Without elaborating on financing Bliss asserted GOP candidates are better qualified from the President on down.

Gubernatorial nominee C. William O'Neill, rounding out his third term as attorney general, served 12 years in the Legislature, two of them as speaker of the Ohio House.

U.S. Sen. George H. Bender, re-nominated without opposition, served five terms in the state Senate and seven in Congress before election in 1954 to the unexpired term of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Bliss expressed confidence that O'Neill and other candidates for state offices would win. He said Bender had a good chance to beat Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche if Ohioans realize that Republican control of the Senate might hinge on Bender's election.

"Washington people say Bender has an excellent record in the Senate," Bliss reported. "He is informed on bills and has done the kind of job that entitles him to reelection."

Bliss predicted that Republicans would retain control of the Legislature, pick up a couple of seats from Democrats in Congress and "crack through into the court-houses which we haven't done for some years." He declined to "pin-point for the opposition" the congressional seats Republicans hoped to gain.

The state chairman said Negroes are showing more interest in the Republican party and figured that gains would come from that direction. He appeared unconcerned

Only One Graduate In School For Blind

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky School for the Blind has only one high school graduate this year.

Full commencement exercises are to be held tonight, however, for Miss Caoia Mae Warfield of Henderson, Dr. Whitney M. Young president of Lincoln Institute, will deliver the commencement address.

The number of graduates has been decreasing annually due to the school's policy of integrating its students into local public schools where possible.

Army Pigeon Said Original Yardbird

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—This guy may be the original yardbird: An Army carrier pigeon based here quit on a mission Saturday because of rain. And the same thing had happened the Saturday before.

Now he's lost.

The Army said Tuesday if the bird is ever found it will fly—in an airplane—to Ft. Monmouth, N.J., for a refresher course.

about lack of Republican support from labor leaders. Records show that rank file working men vote as they please, he explained.

Bliss remained non-committal about reports that an influx of southern workers into Ohio industrial centers, the Portsmouth-Waverly atomic energy area and Ohio River developments favored Democrats.

He asserted that Republicans had the votes to win if they went to the polls. "Candidates must get that 'add on vote' in Ohio to win," Bliss said.

He described the "add on vote" as that lying between confirmed members of both parties who customarily voted for candidates of their own political faith.

State headquarters, Bliss said, will develop a basic campaign to capture the "add on vote" for the entire Republican ticket. Both state and local GOP organizations will concentrate on getting out the vote with the help of individual campaigns by candidates, he explained.

It is not possible for such money to function as brazenly in Great Britain because of the tight control of the Bank of England and the Treasury over the pound sterling and foreign currencies, but such money can be invested in British Crown colonies and in Dominions and can work its way into British enterprises indirectly through Empire Preference.

However, it is more difficult in that country than in the United States where this untaxed money is now coming back to buy up American industries, often munition industries, without any particular government agency having the right under any law to check on the enterprises. Sometimes the management of such money is in the hands of aliens, although who the actual owners of the money are is never disclosed. The Swiss banking law forbids such disclosure.

What is essential is a full-dress Congressional investigation with the object of having a law passed protecting the United States from this untaxed money now pouring into this country and with which honest, tax-paying Americans cannot compete.

Police Say Man Lifted Too Much

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It was Kenneth Dobler's job to lift things at the warehouse.

Detective Sgt. Emmett Hahn said Dobler, a fork-lift operator at Sears, Roebuck & Co., has admitted "lifting" about $6,000 worth of things there since 1949.

Sgt. Hahn said the stolen goods included a furnace, a 30-gallon water heater, a 300-gallon septic tank, an electric range, copper tubing, soil pipe, fire brick, wall cabinets and 42 bundles of asphalt shingles.

Sgt. Hahn said Dobler recently finished a new house and he took a power mower home Monday. Dobler was charged with theft of the $59 mower.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a high school girl, 15, accustomed to getting average and above-average marks in my studies. At the last report I did quite well, except in one subject: Art, in which I had expected to make my best grade.

I had been doing quite well in art class, at least in my opinion, until one day we were having figure drawing lessons. After the assigned subjects were finished, we had time in which to draw a figure of our own choosing.

I thought and thought, trying to hit on a good idea, and finally I made a sketch of the well-known statue—the Venus de Milo. When my teacher saw the sketch, he ordered me into the hall, where he gave me a private and stern lecture on the laws of society—or that's what he seemed to be talking about.

Later, when final reports on students' work were made, my art teacher gave me a "below-average" mark; and wrote that I wouldn't cooperate with the others in class.

Do you think I was given a fair deal? I did nothing wrong. In his art school days, my teacher probably sketched nudes from live models and thought nothing of it—just as I saw nothing vulgar in my sketch of the Venus de Milo.

DEAR E. D.: Whatever the real inside story of the art teacher's upset, he handled the incident of the sketch pretty badly, I think. It probably wasn't the drawing, per se, that got him on his ear. More likely there is an undercurrent of antagonism that you are talented, independent and opinionated, in dealing with subjects (or pursuing knowledge) that interests you.

And, after the fashion of hostile people, if he assumes that you are a threat to his ego, due to your bold spontaneity, he probably imagines that you bear ill-will towards him too. Thus he may have fancied you were being "smart-aleck," and trying to put over a suggestive drawing in guise of art, maybe to win a laugh behind his back, when you turned in your sketch of the Venus de Milo.

Even if your sketch had been in bad taste—which I don't believe; and there is only his agitation to imply that it was—a good teacher would have taken it in stride, correcting your mistake without making a scene. Assuming your work wasn't acceptable for any reason, that reason should have been stated precisely. A good teacher would have stuck to the subject, in explaining your failure (from his view) to cooperate with the class, and produce the type of material expected of students.

Don't let the episode depress or discourage you. Rise above it, philosophically.

M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.

Detroit's Tiger Not So Timid In Play Now

Michigan Outfit Wins 7 In Row, Has AL By The Tail At Moment

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's been a long haul, but Detroit's not-so-timid Tigers have the American League by the tail at the moment. They're winning along on a seven-game winning streak.

Three weeks ago Manager Bucky Harris had a last-place club. He's still 5 1/2 games out of the lead, but up in the first division and only a skip and a jump out of third.

Every one of the Tigers has put his bat to work in the seven-game success story—longest in the majors this season. Harvey Kuenn, batting .441 in that span, and Ray Boone, at .407, are the big guns.

Kuenn was 3-for-6 and Boone hammered home five runs with a homer, double and two singles in five trips Tuesday night as the Tigers outpowered Boston's Red Sox 14-11. Frank House, batting .571 on a part-time basis in Harris' platooning plans in the streak, muscled in with a three-run homer.

New York's first-place lead dwindled to 3 1/2 games, meanwhile, as Kansas City handed the Yankees—who made five errors—their fourth straight defeat 7-4 despite homers by Yogi Berra, Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle, who hit his 21st. Cleveland, with Bob Lemon winning his seventh, took over second by beating Baltimore 8-3. Chicago's White Sox slipped to third with a 3-1 loss at Washington.

Things are much cozier in the National. Pittsburgh, despite a 7-3 defeat at Chicago, has a four-percentage-point hold on the lead over Cincinnati, which trounced Philadelphia 9-4. It's a virtual three-way tie for first, with St. Louis three points back of the Redlegs after beating New York 3-1 while the Brooklyn Dodgers tripped Milwaukee to fourth 6-1 on Roger Craig's two-hitter.

For all their thumping, the Tigers had a ninth-inning scare as the Red Sox scored six times. Don Buddin socked a three-run homer in the rally off reliever Walt Masterson. Billy Klaus and Jackie Jensen also homered for the Sox, off starter Virgil Trucks, who won his second. Bob Porterfielder was the loser.

Wally Moon's two-run triple beat Jim Hearn and the Giants in the sixth as Willard Schmidt, winless since May 8, spun a five-hitter. The Cubs walloped Bob Friend, who sought his 10th victory, for five runs with two out in the third as Warren Hacker, winning his first, shut out the Pirates until the ninth, when Frank Thomas homered.

Aged Gelding Cops Lebanon Feature

LEBANON (AP)—Single Scott, a 13-year-old black gelding, beat its own best time last night winning the featured sixth race at Lebanon Raceway.

With Alvin Tucker at the reins, the Campbellsville, Ky., horse was only fourth at the first turn, but turned on speed and took the lead from Peggy Barnes in the last 20 yards.

The 2:06.4 time Single Scott posted for the mile betters its best previous circuit of 2:08.1.

Redlegs Get Another Sniff Of 2nd Place

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs are back again, breathing the heady air of second place in the National League.

Twice before this year the Reds have shinned up the league ladder to second place, only to falter and fall back.

The Reds' 9-4 victory last night over Philadelphia's Phillies helped boost them back to their present eminence—four percentage points away from the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Two Cincinnati "muscle men," Wally Post and rookie Frank Robinson, were in good form Tuesday night, Post belting two homers, one for three runs. Outfielder Robinson got his 11th round-tripper hit of the season.

In all, the Redlegs got 13 hits. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall, who has had trouble getting started this year, registered his second win after getting into and out of trouble in the fifth and eighth innings.

The Phils loaded the bases in the fifth, helped by a wild Nuxhall throw, and put two runs across.

Philadelphia got its last two tallies in the eighth on a pair of doubles by Granny Hamner and Stan Lopata. Del Ennis' fly out that put Lopata on third, Lopata coming home when Willie Jones was thrown out at first by Roy McMillan.

The third game of the current Redleg series with the Phils comes tonight, with Brooks Lawrence seeking his seventh win on the mound, opposing Stu Miller.

Wally Post Likes Homers In Pairs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wally Post of the Cincinnati Redlegs apparently likes to hit his home runs in pairs.

The hard-hitting outfielder hit two home runs in one game for the third time this season last night as the Redlegs thumped the Phils 9-4.

He also had a pair in each game of a doubleheader against the Chicago Cubs April 23. In 1955, Wally turned the trick three times.

Bobby Boyd Set To Joust Savage

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Boyd, second ranking middleweight contender in Ring Magazine's latest ratings, goes after his ninth straight victory tonight against the fighter who last defeated him, Milo Savage.

The lanky Chicago Negro, who lost to the 30-year-old Savage in New York on April 18, 1955, is an 8-5 favorite in the nationally televised (9 p. m. EST, ABC) return match in Chicago Stadium.

Boyd, 22, is unbeaten since Savage gave him a lesson as a devastating workman on the inside. Since then he has stacked up eight victims in a row.

Moore Seeks Only Shot At Heavy Title

LONDON (AP)—Archie Moore today brushed aside all questions about another defense of his light heavyweight title and said:

"I'm the best heavyweight in the world and that's the title I am after."

The cagey old fellow from San Diego, Calif., cleared his last hurdle on the way to the crown vacated by Rocky Marciano with a 10th-round TKO of Yolande Pompey of Trinidad in a light heavyweight title fight here last night.

"We had signed contracts for this fight in London so we had to go ahead with it," Moore said.

"Now I want that heavyweight title. I'm entitled to it. Marciano nominated me as his logical successor. Floyd Patterson and Tommy Jackson are fighting Friday. There's talk of a fight against the winner in September. I can't get home soon enough."

Patterson and Jackson hold no terrors for Moore, who says he's 39, is reported to be 42, but who fights like a man of 30.

Moore let Pompey do most of the work in the early rounds and the Trinidad fighter was ahead on points at the end of the eighth.

Then came the ninth and Moore pounded Pompey with crushing rights and left hooks.

Pittsburgh's Big Delight Is Its Upstart Pirate '9'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—For the first time since Ralph Kiner left town, Pirate baseball is a vibrant page one story in Pittsburgh's daily life.

Bobby Bragan's upstarts from the basement have captivated the long hungry fans here. And from the Golden Triangle to distant cities, lovers of the underdog are jumping on the Pirate bandwagon.

A cynical visitor inclined to shrug off the Pirate spurt as "one of those things" got religion quickly. Pittsburgh won round one before the bellhop pocketed his tip and closed the hotel room door after flipping on the television set.

The TV announcer must have been clairvoyant. "I'd like to dedicate the next number to the experts (he said 'experts' with a sneer) who picked the Pirates to finish last... they all laughed... dum de dum dum... 'Who's got the last laugh now?'"

On the way to the ball park

Top Hatters Split London Twin Bill

The local Top Hat softballers split a double-header with the London Eagles Tuesday night at the London diamond.

Behind the tight pitching of Harry Strawser, the Top Hatters won the opener 4-1. The big blow for the locals was Bill Ankrom's home run in the 4th inning.

In the second game, marred by errors, Top Hatter pitcher Stillman Morrison dropped a 5-0 decision to the Eagles.

U.S., Red China Join Net Group

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The United States, Communist China and 17 other nations of East and West today joined in forming the "International Tennis Veterans Federation."

Listed as aims of the new organization are fostering of tennis among "aging persons encouraging young players and fighting professionalism."

Age limit: over 45.

Red Murff, 34-year-old rookie pitcher with Milwaukee, completed 28 of 35 starts for Dallas in 1955.

Snead Says His Play 'Stinking'

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Snead, who has blown half a dozen chances to win the National Open Golf Championship, has a single word to describe his prospect in the annual tournament next week.

It's "stinking."

"If I could get my touch on the greens the way I've done the times (three) I've won the Masters and some other tournaments, I'd figure my odds pretty good," the rhythm man from Virginia said. "But I'm stinking."

Sam checked into town today for defense of his Round Robin championship at Wykagyl in near-by Westchester County, starting Thursday. After Sunday's final rounds, he sets off for Rochester, N. Y., and the 56th annual Open.

Ohio Public Links Golfers Eveing Title

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's public links golfers are drawing a bead on the state amateur championship this year, a title no fee course player has ever captured.

The pay-as-you-go contingent will have 24 qualifiers in the amateur field at Mansfield's Westbrook Club for the July 9-14 match play event, and the Ohio Public Links Assn. is trying to line up its finest talent to contest with the private clubbers.

Each of the eight districts will be permitted to select its public links entrants in any way it desires. E. O. Gifford of Columbus, treasurer of the fee course group, said today. Entries, accompanied by the $3 tournament fee, must be in Gifford's hands by July 2.

Cincinnati, Youngstown and Steubenville districts will be allowed two public links entrants each in the amateur. Toledo, Dayton and Columbus districts get three each, Akron four and Cleveland five.

"Districts which exceed their quota of entrants are asked to send in the extra names, with the entry fees," Gifford said. "Then, if any district fails to fill its quota, alternates from the other districts will be permitted to play."

Joe Patton of Steubenville, secretary of the publiclinksters, observed:

"This is the year we're going after the amateur title. Jack Zimmerman of Dayton almost made it last year, holding a four-up lead at one point in the finals, but he finally lost out. We hope to throw our finest players into this year's tournament."

The state public links tourney, scheduled Aug. 9-11 at Toledo's

Spyten Duyval course as a 72-hole play test, is expected to attract some 150 players.

Dodger rookie second baseman Charles Neal hit 16 home runs for Montreal in 1955.

Park Meters Earn $2,563 During May

Circleville's parking meters collected a total of $2,563 during the month of May.

The city's parking meter income has been in the spotlight more than ever before during the past few months because of plans to set up at least two off-street parking lots in the downtown district. The curb stone parking meter money would be an important factor in financing such projects.

Chairman George Crites of city council's finance committee revealed the latest monthly parking meter collection when he submitted the May report of City Auditor Lillian Young.

THE REPORT, showing funds, receipts, expenditures and balances, was accepted by council as follows:

General Fund $9,479.28, $15,163.41, $11,125.85;
Water Works Operation Fund $8,173.59, 4,580.03, 42,146.83;
Sewage Disposal Fund $1,319.43, 2,162.11, 6,277.71;
Street Construction, and Repair Fund $19,173.99, 6,906.72, 13,994.49;
Water Works Ext. Imp. Fund $630.27, 10,789.44;
Water Works Trust Fund 130, 110, 3,065;
Police Pension Fund $321.83, 390.67, 7,612.96;
Fireman Pension Fund $315.83, 125, 26,582.14;
Parking Meter Collection $2,563.

Public Hearing Puts It All Up To Lawmakers

firm would be nucleus for development of the trading spot. It would be located north of Hargus Creek between Court and Pick-away streets.

Shaefer declared at the outset that he "did not come down here to join in a shouting contest," a reference ostensibly to William Ammer's manner. The prosecutor shouted his arguments and paced back and forth in front of the councilmen, frequently shaking his arm toward leaders of the rezoning move.

EARLY IN his talk, when subdued chuckles and comments were heard from the 5-some spectators, Ammer paused to ask:

"Did you have something further to say, Mr. Shaefer?"

If the Columbus attorney replied, it was not audible.

Shaefer spoke first in the debate, expected to be the last public argument on the subject outside of council.

The Columbus attorney briefly retraced signs of growth in Circleville and the need for more business expansion. The city can achieve this expansion, he said, through the shopping center.

The area it would occupy, he declared, would merely be a northern expansion of the present business section.

"Competition is healthy," he told the gathering. "It would provide an opportunity for progressive local business people, and for good investment."

Shaefer said he did not believe the planning commission approached the question with "an open mind," and cited his negotiations with Ludwig Haacker, chairman of that body.

Shaefer told how Haacker refused to give him the names of those who mailed in ballots for a special property owner poll conducted by the commission. Shaefer charged that all of the eligible property owners did not receive ballots, and that the poll itself was conducted in "what seemed to be a careless manner."

SHAEFER quoted Haacker as saying he declined to reveal the names of the property owners and how they voted "because it would cause dissension." Haacker had announced in advance of the poll that comments added to the ballots by the property owners would be kept confidential.

In the way the commission handled the poll, Shaefer said, "there may have been some indication of bias."

The function of the planning commission, Shaefer said, "should be to plan for the future—not to serve as a protective association for any one group."

The Columbus lawyer scoffed at the claim that the shopping center would cause traffic hazards for school children and also encourage crime. "We don't intend to permit vice, gambling and racketeering," he said. "All we want to do is open a grocery store."

In reference to a counter-proposal that the shopping center be located along Route 23 in the new North Annex, Shaefer explained: "We feel a northern location would split your business community. We feel it would hurt more than help you."

The planning commission, he said, is trying to limit normal growth of the city.

YOUNG, who appeared in behalf of Guy Rader, one of the property owners in favor of the rezoning plan, followed Shaefer.

He said he feels that the big mistake made by the planning body was in viewing the matter in the light of individual interests, instead of "thinking what was best for the whole community." Young pointed out that it is often inevitable that individual interests must suffer for progress of the community as a whole.

"When you reduce your consideration to whose property will be hurt and whose property will not be hurt," he said, "then you lose sight of what is good for all the community."

"What do you think would happen if all the residents of the city were permitted to vote on this? I dare say they would pass it two to one."

The views of the opposition, Young said, might well be summed up in the words:

"I'm for community progress, but only if it is out on the edge of town."

Young said council should keep in mind that Ammer is opposed to the shopping center plan merely because his home property would be affected.

"Let's raise our sights a little," he urged council, "and then decide what will be better for all of Circleville."

AMMER OPENED his talk by telling council:

"When you have so many other important things before you, it's absurd that you should have to take time for such a monstrosity as this."

Ammer said Young was correct in saying the good of the whole community should come first, "but where does he get that assumption that the people of Circleville would vote two to one in favor of it?" Ammer said he has received calls from all sections of the city supporting his stand, and that many persons have stopped him on the street to urge him to continue the fight.

"They know," he shouted, "that if it (the rezoning) is done along Hargus Creek, it can be done in their own neighborhoods—no matter where they live. Zoning would be dead in Circleville."

Ammer declared that top officials of the Kroger company had admitted they "wouldn't want the thing near my home."

He praised the planning commission and denounced "selfish interests" behind the rezoning effort. He was especially vigorous in his defense of the planning body.

"It's a disgrace when you can come here and slander these fine men of the commission," he said. "I never thought it would come to this."

The commission had the right to refuse information on how the poll votes were cast, Ammer claimed, under privileges of the American secret ballot. Then he added:

"They (rezoning advocates) come back time and time again to pit neighbor against neighbor, and to spread confusion and hate! Who is behind it, Mr. Stewart? Why don't you lay all the cards on the table?"

The shopping center interests, Ammer said, have disclosed that they studied properties on E. Main and W. Main streets, "south of town," and in the North Annex. "But they didn't want to pay the price," he declared. "They wanted it cheap."

Ammer attacked Shaefer's reference to dividing the business community if the shopping center were in the North. He said the area along the creek is "five or six blocks" from the heart of the city, and asked:

"Wouldn't that separate the business community?"

AMMER THEN reviewed arguments he had voiced several times before against the shopping center.

ter, and accused supporters of the plan of "coming down here with the big city push."

In closing his talk, Ammer presented a petition signed by property owners in the Springhollow Road, vicinity. The petition is in opposition to the rezoning.

Ammer closed with the assertion that to permit the rezoning would be a community error comparable to that of "squaring the circle" in the days of Old Roundtown.

In closing remarks, Shaefer told council:

"He (Ammer) is complaining because his ox is being gored—and I don't blame him. But all that we ask you to remember is that this is the only basis for his complaints."

EATON (AP)—The Preble County grand jury yesterday indicted tavern operator Mike Wilczynski, 45, on a charge of second degree murder in the shooting death of a patron.

The victim, John C. Wright, 23, Richmond, Ind., was killed last May 19. Wilczynski claimed the

Lausche Hoping For Portion Of N-S Turnpike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov.

Frank J. Lausche says he hopes bond money might be available to finance some segment of a proposed second Ohio turnpike route.

Gov. Lausche said Tuesday the decision of investment houses that the entire north-south turnpike project could not be financed on reasonable terms was disappointing but understandable under the present bond market conditions.

"My hopes," he said, "are that out of turnpike bond money we will be able to build at least either that part of the highway running from Cincinnati to U. S. 40 or that segment running from Pennsylvania to Ohio Turnpike No. 1."

Blythe & Co., Inc., of New York, recommended postponing construction of a Cincinnati to Cincinnati road.

The recommendation was disclosed Tuesday at a meeting of the Ohio Turnpike Commission.

Bliss told newsmen Tuesday he felt reasonably certain Eisenhower would "make at least one appearance in Ohio." He added that it

Possible Visit By Ike To Ohio Talked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A possible

visit to Ohio by President Eisenhower next fall is expected to be one of the major topics for discussion today at Ray C. Bliss, Republican state chairman from Ohio, opens a round of campaign conferences here.

Bliss was scheduled to meet this afternoon with Ohio's two Republican senators, John W. Bricker and George H. Bender, and Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, GOP national committeeman. They will lay plans for a meeting in Columbus next Monday of Ohio delegates to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco next August.

Tonight Bliss will give a dinner party for Ohio GOP congressional nominees and GOP candidates for statewide offices. Campaign strategy will be discussed, Bliss says.

Bliss told newsmen Tuesday he felt reasonably certain Eisenhower would "make at least one appearance in Ohio." He added that it would be a television appearance.

Bliss said several cabinet members and other administration leaders also would visit Ohio during the campaign to urge reelection of Bender.

Before returning to Columbus Thursday night, Bliss plans to confer with Vice President Richard M. Nixon, GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and other administration leaders.

Van Wert All Set For Peony Festival

VAN WERT (AP)—It's Peony Festival time in Van Wert. And this northernmost Ohio city is a riot of floral color—peonies, of course.

Highwater marks on today's program will be the parades which will be made up of 42 visiting bands and 23 floats. One was due this afternoon, the other tonight at 8:30.

Lt. Gov. John Brown crowned the festival queen, Janis Beatty, during the afternoon while Gov. Frank J. Lausche will do the honors tonight.

Many Soviet Contradictions Play Role In New Tensions

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of four articles evaluating the current Cold War in the light of new economic maneuvers by the Soviet Union.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union has H-bombs and a frightfully bad system of highways. It has super-jet planes and lags 25 years behind the United States in automotive production.

Russians pioneered soil study, and Soviet agriculture is in turmoil.

Russia produced topnotch scientists for two centuries, but the U.S.S.R. has a shortage of educated people.

The Soviet Union has a vast population and a shortage of manpower.

These contradictions are important as the Soviet Union and the United States enter a long economic-political contest in which communism hopes to pave the way to world domination.

Brilliant Soviet advances in modern techniques make up only half the picture. The other half keeps Soviet leaders on the edge of fear. The great basic contradiction is that even with great strength, the Soviet Union is weak and global war is unthinkable.

Russia, for example, has modern jet transports in operation. It can produce such things because it can assign top priorities in peacetime by edict and concentrate manpower, materials and capital. But at the same time it is neglecting sectors in which the West goes steadily forward.

The Soviet Union has awesome armed strength. It has no shortage of brains and materials for heavy industry, which produces for war. The Soviet bloc and China can present the lure of a vast market for free world nations hungry for trade. The Communist fifth column is in a position to capitalize on the postwar avalanche of nationalism and western identification with colonialism.

But the Soviet Union also is weak. Staggering problems stand in the way of the Soviet global program.

The glaring weakness is the consumer economy. The Soviet consumer, cheated first by Stalin's hunger for industrial power and then by the war effort, is being put off again by the new long-term drive for economic supremacy.

It will take years for the Russians to begin coping with the extreme shortage of housing alone. Urban population increases faster than the regime wants to cope with it. Materials and labor for housing are short because of the vast appetite of heavy industry.

Agriculture remains another weakness. The supply of trains for a growing urban population is less than in 1938. Farmers are ordered to increase their gross output 70 per cent by 1960, to double production of meat and milk. Vegetables—even the staple potato—are in short supply.

More manpower—from the armed forces if necessary—must be thrown into agriculture if the Russians hope to make their domestic economy strong enough to compete effectively for influence abroad.

The regime is not thinking primarily of its consumer population. In Premier Bulganin's words increased production will step up "exports to friendly countries"—that is, be in a better position to compete with the West.

Strategic planning, by Soviet calculation, will involve at least 10 years in which industries must be more economically distributed with relation to raw materials and transport problems. There are serious lags in coal production. Bureaucracy prevents the most economical use of oil resources.

The state of Soviet transport would be a serious menace in wartime. There are great strains on the inadequate rail system which carried 87 per cent of Soviet domestic transport in 1955. The problem of automotive transport is acute. There is an acute shortage of tires. There is pressing need for good roads.

Technology and education, despite advertised Soviet advances, show sharp failures. Educated youth are little inclined to make homes in remote and uncomfortable areas. Only half the workers in Soviet industry have had more than four years' schooling. Specialists are trained under bureaucratic control of ministries, trusts and factories.

On the political front, de-Stalinization is a certain weakness. It seems to be a lollipop for the Soviet people, once again ordered to wait for the consumer goods they long for. Stalin gets the blame for all that is wrong in the U.S.S.R.

While the needs of Red China and the attempt to compete for world favor through exports continue to be a drain on the Soviet economy, the consumer must wait. But revolutionary communism is not the force it once was in Russia. The Soviet structure is changing. The people have demonstrated they can be impatient. Their pressure will be felt more and more in the Kremlin in the next 10 years.

Next: Americans take stock.

The famous Mason-Dixon line was established to settle disputes over private land grants and not as a dividing line between the North and South.
